

Gang invades mansion $20 million in art stolen

BLESSINGTON, Ireland (AP) — A gang of armed thieves directed by a young woman with an eye for the finest invaded the mansion of a gold-mining millionaire Friday night, tied up everyone in the house and escaped with the biggest art haul on record — masterpieces police said were worth $20.4 million.

The robbers selected their loot carefully. Police said works by Goya, Rembrandt and Vermeer were among the paintings stolen from the home of Sir Alfred Beit.

The next-biggest art theft on record was eight masterpieces — including three Rembrandts — from Dulwich College Art Gallery in London Dec. 31, 1966. Those works were valued at $7 million, and all were recovered within a few days unharmed.

Detectives believed the paintings in Friday's robbery would be difficult to sell and theorized they may have been stolen in a bid to trade them for Irish Republican Army members jailed by the government.

The apparent leader of the five-member gang was an attractive woman with a French accent, police said. The raiders struck at about 10 p.m. and tied up Beit, his family and servants, but no injuries were reported.

Police said the woman knew exactly which masterpieces to take — "the most valuable ones in Sir Alfred's collection."

Other masters represented among the stolen works included Gainsborough, Velasquez and Frans Hals, police said.

Beit, 61, made his fortune in South African gold mining. His mother was the former Lillian Carter of New Orleans, who died in 1946.

The gang leader first selected a small canvas by 17th century Dutch master Jan Vermeer, "Woman Writing a Letter." Its value was given by police as $7.2 million.

Next, she took a Frans Hals, "Portrait of a Cavalier," valued at $1.8 million.

Others of the stolen paintings were identified as a Goya, "Woman in a Mantilla," worth $2.4 million and two by the Dutch painter Metsus worth $1.8 million.

The Reubens was identified as "Portrait of a Monk." Its value, the names of the other paintings and their values were not known immediately.

Police said the four thieves accompanying the girl were men armed with revolvers. The raid was over in about seven minutes, and police believe the gang got away in a sedan driven by another woman.

Beit, who boasted one of the greatest private art collections in Europe, brought 33 masterpieces from South Africa in 1954 to hang in the stately 18th century mansion, called Russborough.

He inherited a fortune from his father, a South African diamond millionaire, and added to it by his own dealings.

Until after election Reinecke bid to delay trial OKd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker agreed Friday to California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke's request to delay his perjury trial until after the June 7 California primary.

The request had caught both the judge and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski by surprise, for it was believed Reinecke wanted the trial completed by the primary.

As he boarded the plane at Ontario, Calif., en route to Sacramento, Reinecke was asked about the court action and he said:

"I don't believe a postponement was requested. We still want the trial before the primary. We simply notified the judge that in the event he elected not to grant the change of venue that my attorneys were prepared to appeal the ruling to a higher court and that would take an extra day or two so the judge moved the hearing on that motion up to May 6 so we may still be on schedule."

Reinecke is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in California.

Reinecke's lawyers made the request at a meeting with Assistant Special Prosecutor Joseph J. Connolly in Parker's chambers.

Connolly did not oppose the request but said that he was willing to begin the trial at any time, including now.

Parker said he would sign an order next week. It is expected he will set a trial date for later in June or July.

Deadly fumes peril Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A huge chemical storage tank sprang a leak Friday, sending a five-mile-long, half-mile-wide blue cloud of potentially deadly fumes 12,000 feet over Chicago's far South Side and adjacent suburbs.

Authorities began evacuating an area of 30,000 people.

Gov. Daniel Walker, after flying over the affected area, mobilized three battalions of National Guardsmen to aid in evacuations and prevent looting.

All available fire department ambulances were called to the area around the tank of the Bulk Terminals Co. at 122nd Street and Stony Island Avenue.

Roseland Community Hospital reported at least 16 persons, some with heart conditions, had been brought in—most of them coughing heavily, having difficulty in breathing, and complaining of irritated, dry throats.

Dr. Badi Boulos, a toxicologist at the University of Illinois Medical School, said the silicon tetrachloride fumes could be fatal to children or persons with respiratory ailments. And a spokesman for the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency said there was a danger the tank might rupture and shower the mist "on the heart of Chicago."

Persons entering the neighborhood felt their lungs begin to burn within minutes.

"It could cause a complete degeneration of cells in the respiratory tract," said Boulos. "The acid kills the lining of the respiratory tract and it could, in some cases, result in death."

Crashes spur PanAm probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday ordered "a special in-depth inspection" of flight operations at Pan American World Airways where four plane crashes in nine months have claimed 290 lives.

Federal Aviation Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield said the inspection "will begin immediately, and will cover such areas as pilot training, operation procedures, pilot supervision, pilot scheduling" as well as other areas.

A spokesman for Pan Am said, "We welcome the investigation and will cooperate fully."

Butterfield's action followed the crash of a Pan Am jetliner April 23 on the island of Bali, which killed 107 persons. On Jan. 30, another Pan Am jetliner crashed attempting a landing at Pago Pago, Samoa, killing 101 persons.

A third Pan Am jet—a cargo plane—crashed at Boston's Logan Airport, Nov. 3, 1973, killing three persons. Last July 22, 79 persons died when a Pan Am jet crashed on takeoff from the island of Tahiti in the Pacific.

"In view of the four crashes, we feel the investigation is a prudent thing to do," a spokesman for the FAA said.

But he emphasized that the agency was not drawing "any conclusions."

The investigation, which will take up to two months to complete, was ordered after FAA officials met with Pan American officials.

The National Transportation Safety Board, which investigates all commercial accidents involving fatalities, also is investigating the accidents, but as yet has not issued a report of its findings.

The investigation comes as Pan American is fighting heavy financial losses in recent years.

Earlier this year, the airline formally asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for a $194 million subsidy, claiming it was "simply overwhelmed with the spiraling cost of aviation jet fuel."

Firms trim profit figures Oil millions unreported

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK—The countries' five largest oil companies trimmed millions of dollars from their first-quarter profit figures by setting up contingency funds for possible retroactive crude oil prices or tax increases.

The companies—Exxon, Texaco, Mobil, Gulf and Standard of California—say the money is placed in the contingency funds to cover potential retroactive increases in costs for the quarter. With the exception of Texaco, which said it was charging earnings by $143 million for these costs, the companies refuse to detail the amounts of their contingency funds.

Some securities analysts Friday said Exxon's reserve for the quarter could run as high as $400 million, which would increase the company's profit to over a billion for the quarter.

Asked about the estimate, Exxon comptroller, A. L. Monroe, said: "I won't comment on that figure, whether it's right or wrong, because the number you're trying to get at doesn't mean anything in my opinion."

The contingency procedure is legal under Securities and Exchange Commission regulations, but accountants expressed diverse opinions on whether a company should disclose or subtract contingency liabilities from earnings in its quarterly financial report.

The oil companies say they first began to set aside these reserves at varying times during the past 12 months, depending upon when the foreign producing nations stepped up their demands for greater participation.

Gulf began in the first part of 1973. Mobil mentioned the reserves in the 1973 annual report but did not specify the amount. Social and Exxon said the reserves were too insignificant to detail for 1973.

Regarding Exxon, the world's largest oil company, Prof. David Hawkins of Harvard Business School said: "The concept is reasonable, but one ought to know the amounts involved and the assumptions behind putting the money aside."

The companies attribute the reserves to possible increases in costs of crude oil obtained from Middle East producing nations within the past year. Though the oil has been produced and sold, for the most part, neither the companies nor the countries have yet agreed on the prices.

In addition, two companies, Exxon and Social, say they are setting aside money in the first quarter that they feel may be needed to pay any taxes that would result if the U.S. Congress passed a bill eliminating the foreign tax credit.

Monroe said Exxon had deducted $37 million for tax payments for the quarter because "it's pretty obvious to us that Congress is going to pass the tax bill." Social did not say how much it had set aside for taxes.

Analysts, government officials and some oil men say a principal reason the companies may be holding back from disclosing their contingency reserves, or adding them to gross profits, is fear of public reaction.

"The Arabs know what our estimated prices are," said a Middle East specialist for Texaco, who asked to remain anonymous.

However, a spokesman for Exxon, Art Lamb, said the company did not disclose the special charge "because we didn't want to give the Middle East nations an idea as to what we were estimating as our expected costs" when agreement was reached on how much the firm owed for the Arab oil it has received thus far this year.

National traffic toll drops 25%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy chief John C. Sawhill said Friday that the national highway death toll dropped 25 per cent in March — the first month that all states observed the energy-conserving 55 mile per hour speed limit.

To bolster the government's faltering energy savings program, Sawhill also proposed measures citizens should follow this summer. They ranged from warmer air conditioner settings to fewer neckties.

Sawhill and Dr. James Gregory, head of the National Traffic Safety Administration, told a news conference that an estimated 3,191 persons were killed on U.S. highways in March compared to 4,283 during the same month last year.

The decline in fatalities continues a trend which began last November when a few states began to enforce the lower speed limit. Gregory estimated that a total of 3,700 lives have been saved since then.

Gregory said the lower death toll was directly related to the 55 m.p.h. speed limit and a tendency of motorists to drive less during the gas shortage. "Not only will we save fuel, but lives as well, if enforcement officials will continue their highway safety efforts and maintain the lower speed limit," he added.

The energy conserving measures which Sawhill suggested included:

- Setting air conditioner thermostats at 78 to 80 degrees.
- Wearing more sports clothes and fewer neckties. "...An open collar rather than a tight collar with a tie means greater comfort, equivalent to several degrees of atmospheric temperature," Sawhill said.
- Turn off as many electric lights as possible.

Nixon seen baring transcripts, not tapes

BY JAMES M. NAUGHTON
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon reportedly will seek public support next week for a decision to give the House Judiciary Committee transcripts rather than tape recordings of Watergate-related conversations subpoenaed for the impeachment inquiry.

The apparent decision by Nixon to withhold the tapes themselves, which was suggested in a variety of comments and developments Friday, could produce a new and major conflict with the Judiciary Committee.

But the White House was said to be preparing to counter the committee's position that it required the tapes by mounting a new publicity campaign, which may have begun already.

Dean Burch, counselor to the President, told the Republican National Committee in a luncheon address Friday that Nixon would turn over "a massive body of evidence" to the committee.

The White House aide said the evidence would be "substantial," "relevant," "compelling and persuasive" and that, "out of this factual record, the whole story will emerge and the whole truth become known."

But Burch declined to tell newsmen after the speech whether Nixon would yield the actual tapes of some 42 presidential conversations demanded in the Judiciary Committee's subpoena.

White House spokesmen reasserted Friday that no final decision had been made by the President on the form or content of his reply to the subpoena, which is due by 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Administration officials said privately, however, that it was likely Nixon would turn over transcripts his lawyers had been preparing, with "irrelevant" sections and course or blasphemous language deleted. One official said the principal point still unsettled was the method the White House might adopt to assure the Judiciary Committee of the accuracy and authenticity of the transcripts.

The officials also said that Nixon was considering some form of public appeal for acceptance of his position and for reasserting his innocence of any wrongdoing. The possibility of a nationwide television address on Monday was reportedly raised when Nixon and his chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., cruised on the Potomac River last night aboard the White House Yacht, Sequoia.

The Judiciary Committee chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has said several times in the last week that he and the committee would "emphatically" reject transcripts rather than the tape recordings.

The suggestions being made at the White House Friday were that Nixon would seek public support for the "reasonableness" of an offer of transcripts.

Apartment blast kills 1, injures 10

SANTA ROSA (AP) — One person was killed and at least 10 others injured Friday when a natural gas explosion and fire nearly demolished one wing of an apartment complex, officials said.

A spokesman at Community Hospital said Mark Saxton, 32, died of severe burns several hours after the blast.

Ten persons, including a seven-week-old baby, were treated for superficial injuries and released.

Authorities said it was not known exactly how many persons were inside the apartment complex in the western part of this Sonoma County city, about 50 miles north of San Francisco.

Firemen said they controlled the blaze within a half hour.

"There appeared to be extensive damage," said Santa Rosa Fire Department Inspector Jerry Faddis. "One outside wall seemed completely gone. It was lying there in a heap."

A Pacific Gas & Electric Co. spokesman said the explosion didn't appear to involve the firm's gas main.

A Santa Rosa police dispatcher said switchboards were flooded with calls from neighbors who felt or heard the explosion and thought it was an earthquake.

Jury weighs Mitchell, Stans fate

Combined News Services

NEW YORK — A federal court jury in a grueling daylong session abruptly shifted emphasis Friday in its deliberations at the 10-week-old criminal conspiracy trial of former Cabinet colleagues John Mitchell and Maurice Stans. The hard-driving panel, setting its own pace, spent 11 hours, 15 minutes in their deliberation room before calling it a day. Their only respite was an hour and a half break for dinner. They had lunch brought in. They are due back in court at 10 a.m. today. One apparent implication from the jury's requests was that the panel was deciding Mitchell's fate before turning to Stans. Mitchell and Stans are accused in a 15-count indictment of attempting to influence an investigation of international financier Robert Vesco in return for a campaign contribution. The two men are the first former Cabinet officers to go on trial in nearly half a century.

'Outlaws' captured by police

WENTWORTH, N.C. — Two fugitives were captured Friday night after they had been declared outlaws under a 108-year-old law that would have allowed any citizen to shoot them if they resisted capture. Thomas James Hundley of Eden, N.C., and Mack John Williams Jr., 23, of Reidsville, N.C., were apprehended by Rockingham County sheriff's deputies in an abandoned house here. Officers said the men were tired and hungry and offered no resistance. Hundley and Williams were among five men who fled the Rockingham County Jail on Wednesday. Both were awaiting trial on murder charges. Judge Julius Rousseau Jr. declared the pair outlaws Friday, invoking the 108-year-old state law as a "drastic step."

Eagleton to seek 2nd term

ST. LOUIS — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., announced Friday he will seek a second term and urged strongly that he and his opponent limit campaign expenses to $300,000. Eagleton said television is the main cause for expenses and proposed that he and former Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, the likely Republican candidate, replace TV advertising with a series of debates. "Political campaigns in recent time often have been dominated by the hard-sell tactics of the skilled PR man," Eagleton said. "Citizens have been regarded as objects to be manipulated, and government has suffered as reasoned debate has given way to the 30-second television spot."

Portugal junta vows wide reforms

LISBON, Portugal — Portugal's new leader, Gen. Antonio de Spínola, moved on Friday to consolidate the army's takeover of the country by promising elections, a free press and the end of political police. At the same time, the first reported clash between soldiers and civilians took place near the secret police headquarters, besieged by the army all day. The crowd broke through army guards and beat a secret policeman as he was being taken into custody. Other demonstrators cursed through Lisbon's streets again cheering Spínola and the other six men in the military junta. Thursday's coup ended the 42-year dictatorship begun by Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, who died in 1970. It had been passed on to Premier Marcello Caetano, who was sent to exile on the Atlantic island of Madeira.

Military seizes ex-officials

ADDIS ABABA — Heavily armed, steel-helmeted police and army units swept through Ethiopia's capital Friday, arresting former government ministers and nearly 200 top military officers, including many generals. The roundup began at dawn when most of the already discredited former ministers were confined to their homes with sentries posted outside. The ministers, who resigned en masse exactly two months ago after the military revolt, were alleged to have embezzled countless thousands of dollars of government money. Since that time, they have been walking around free—a fact which has generated repeated street demonstrations by large sectors of the population as well as police and military mutinies.

Turks uphold life terms

ANKARA, Turkey — A criminal appeals court Friday upheld the life sentences of three young Americans convicted of conspiring to smuggle drugs into Turkey. Legal experts said only the discovery of important new evidence or witnesses could bring about a new trial for the defendants — Katherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wis.; Joann McDaniel, 29, of Coos Bay, Ore.; and Robert E. Hubbard, 23, of San Diego, Calif. Their sentences could be reduced to 24 years, however, if an amnesty bill currently under debate in the Turkish parliament is passed.

Kissinger hopeful over Mideast

Combined News Services

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who will talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko en route to the Mideast next week, said Friday in Washington that with Russian help he was hopeful for a Syrian-Israeli military disengagement.

But, he told a news conference, the negotiations would be far more difficult and delicate than the conferences which brought separation of Egyptian-Israeli forces along the Suez canal.

The secretary dangled the possibility that Syria might share in a proposed $100 million contingency fund for the Middle East if a settlement could be reached with Israel on the Golan heights area where fighting continued for the 47th day.

Kissinger leaves Sunday on his fifth Middle East tour, with a stopover Monday in Geneva where he will confer with Gromyko. He said the Russians had not been unhelpful and he hoped they would play a "constructive role" in bringing about a Syrian-Israeli settlement.

Kissinger rejected a suggestion that the Soviet Union was not backing up disengagement efforts because of its continued shipment of military supplies to Syria.

Solzhenitsyn

Alexander Solzhenitsyn, banished from the Soviet Union in February, gave money to support Soviet political prisoners for several years and the aid will continue despite his exile, a Russian dissident said Friday in Moscow.

In a statement to the press, Alexander Ginzburg said he had been chosen "to assist Solzhenitsyn in carrying out this goal in a concrete way."

Solzhenitsyn and his Swiss lawyer have said several times that money from the writer's books would be used to help prisoners, their relatives and friends in the Soviet Union.

Big birthday

Six members of the Eric Anderson family celebrated birthdays Friday—the 29th for mother Karen Anderson and first for the Anderson quintuplets.

The three boys and two girls were born last year at Bess Kaiser Hospital in nearby Portland, Ore.

Diana, the last quint born, was the smallest and was listed in critical condition for several weeks. A few months later she underwent a successful operation to correct a heart defect.

Karen Anderson said Diana is now "the most mischievous and most energetic of all."

Chavez

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Cesar Chavez said Friday that when his United Farm Workers union resolves its problems in California it will make a concerted effort at organization in Florida.

Speaking to a predominantly youthful audience of 300 in a downtown church, Chavez outlined efforts over the past 14 years to win labor contracts for grape and lettuce pickers.

He said his union has made some efforts at organization in Florida over the past four years and won "one of the best contracts in the whole industry" from Minute Maid.

"When we resolve our issues in California, we can come to Florida and organize in a more formal way," he said.

Exhausted

Physical exhaustion has abruptly ended Henry Fonda's Broadway engagement in the drama "Clarence Darrow."

The 68-year-old actor collapsed in his dressing room after the Tuesday night performance of the one-act play and was admitted for rest to Lenox Hill Hospital.

The Wednesday and Thursday performances were skipped and a production spokesman announced that the final three, one Friday and two on Saturday, have been canceled on orders of the attending physician.

During the local five-week engagement the actor caught a low viral infection. His wife said that the strain of participating in the Tony Awards ceremonies last Sunday caused additional fatigue.

Heart doctor

A federal appeals court in New Orleans Friday rejected a malpractice suit accusing Dr. Denton Cooley of conducting "human experimentation" when he implanted a totally mechanical heart in a man for the first time.

Mrs. Haskell Karp, widow of the heart recipient, had charged that the renowned heart specialist defrauded her husband and inadequately informed him about the revolutionary heart device that had been invented at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston. She also said Cooley had been negligent in performing the surgery.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected the claim on all counts.

Curing

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., expects to be released from the hospital this weekend and back in his Senate office Monday morning, a spokeswoman said Friday.

Humphrey was admitted, as scheduled, into Bethesda Naval Hospital Thursday evening for evaluations of treatments late last year for possible bladder cancer.

His doctors reported Friday morning that "the initial examination revealed no evidence of a tumor. The checkup went very well.... A biopsy was taken and the results probably will be available on Wednesday."

Ralph Nader refused to be taken for a ride in Utah when he found he couldn't buckle up.

Nader, who spoke at Utah State University, was supposed to ride from Salt Lake International Airport to the Logan campus with student body president Rex Lund. But when the consumer advocate climbed into Lund's car, he found no seat belts.

"I don't ride in cars without seat belts," Nader said. He made the 80-mile trip in another car equipped with belts.

Old tune

Jack "Murph the Surf" Murphy can't have a new violin, the warden at Florida State Prison says.

His wife, Connie, says he has played the violin since childhood and she bought him a new one because the one he acquired in prison is worn beyond repair.

But Supt. George Fortner says the prison can't be responsible for an inmate's musical instrument.

Murphy is serving a sentence of life plus 20 years. He was convicted of murder in the deaths of two secretaries and for stealing the Star of India sapphire from a New York museum in 1964.

Reburied

Nearly 13 years after he died of cancer, the body of Gary Cooper was brought from a grave in Los Angeles and reinterred in a Long Island resort community he frequently visited.

"He always loved Southampton, so we thought this was where he should be," the film star's widow, Veronica, now Mrs. John M. Converse, said Friday.

The Rev. Donald O'Brien officiated at a brief reinterment ceremony at the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary Cemetery.

Friendly

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are "still very friendly" despite their decision to divorce, their publicist said Friday in Los Angeles.

"They expect to have no problems arranging a financial settlement," said spokeswoman Donna Quinn. "The lawyers are working on everything now."

Grand jury subpoenas convicted trucker

L.A. man gets life in slaying of sailor

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A Wilmington trucker, found guilty of soliciting the murder of a business rival, has been called to testify before a federal grand jury inquiring into organized crime in the Southland.

The subpoenaing of Victor Peter Suglio and the existence of the grand jury proceedings in Los Angeles came to light Friday during a hearing in Long Beach Superior Court.

In Los Angeles, special attorney Terry Lord of the Justice Department's Organized Crime and Racketeering Squad confirmed Suglio's subpoena for a Tuesday appearance at the hearings. He declined to comment on the nature of the hearings.

Also disclosed in the Long Beach hearing before Judge Pat Mullendore was the report by trial witness Nick Scaccia that he has been threatened since Suglio's conviction.

Suglio, the 58-year-old operator of American Transport Systems, was found guilty March 21 in Judge Mullendore's court of having offered $1,500 to Scaccia to kill trucking competitor Costas "Gus" Makras.

The conviction came in Suglio's second trial on the charge. His first trial ended in a mistrial last Nov. 11.

Scaccia, business agent for Teamster's Union Local 692 in Wilmington, testified in both trials that Suglio proposed the killing during a luncheon conversation at the Velvet Turtle restaurant in Long Beach on May 3, 1973.

Scaccia went to Harbor Division police, he testified, and Suglio was arrested after a second discussion of the killing was transmitted to a police tape recorder.

The silver-haired Suglio has been free on $10,000 bond. Friday, however, he was returned to sheriff's custody following his probation report hearing. Judge Mullendore granted a week-long stay in the defendant's sentencing, but ordered Suglio into custody because of an "unfavorable" probation report, he said.

According to Deputy Dist. Atty. Harold Prukop, the report recommends a term in state prison for Suglio.

Contents of the report, Suglio's attorney, Tom Horn, who indicated he may subpoena several people quoted by the probation officer. They would then be required to appear at Suglio's sentencing, set for 9 a.m. May 3.

It was during Horn's discussion of the report with the judge that existence of the grand jury interest in the case came out.

Horn told the court that he was unhappy with several "unsubstantiated" statements in the report, at least one of which alleges that Suglio has a Northern California "affiliation with organized crime."

Horn attributed that statement to a San Mateo

County sheriff's investigator named as Everett Weaver, who was interviewed by the probation officer. Horn added that his client had been subpoenaed for the grand jury while awaiting the start of Friday's hearing.

Suglio's attorney argued that before any decision was made by the court based on the probation report, Weaver should be called on to provide details of his allegation.

Horn also suggested that details should be provided by Scaccia, who was quoted in the probation report as claiming he had been threatened in apparent connection with the Suglio case.

While attempting to solicit Scaccia for the killing, Suglio boasted of underworld connections and boasted he could get "10 guns down from Frisco for a grand ($1,000) to do the job right," according to a police tape introduced in the first trial.

When questioned by the prosecutor, Suglio denied such connections; "Mafia? I don't know no Mafia! What's a Mafia?"

A 23-year-old Los Angeles man Friday was sentenced in Long Beach Superior Court to life in prison for the March 1973 murder of a sailor in San Pedro.

Bob Robert Watkins, who was found guilty March 21 of killing the 23-year-old seaman, accepted the sentence stoically in the court of Judge D. Sterry Fagan.

The sentence concluded Watkins' second trial on charges he shot to death

Gary Franklin Miller, of Porterville, Miller, stationed aboard the Long Beach-based tank landing ship Bristol County, was killed while hitchhiking through San Pedro.

Watkins was arrested and brought to trial in Long Beach after Miller's body was found beside a Harbor Freeway off-ramp behind the Harbor Division police station. The victim had been shot four times in the chest at close range, police said.

ACTION LINE is your service solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90844, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. Questions are selected for their general interest and helpfulness. Please, do not send original documents you wish returned.

Cool it

I am a teacher in the Long Beach public schools and teach a course in marine biology and oceanography during the summer session. During the course we examine the living habits of sea animals in several aquariums. My problem is that during the summer months the water temperature of the aquariums becomes too high for the sea animals to survive. I once saw a refrigerator which was converted into a cooling system for aquariums. I have a small refrigerator which I would like to donate to the school district for this purpose. However, I am in need of help in converting the refrigerator into a functional cooling system. Could ACTION LINE please find out where I could get such help? F. K., Cypress.

ACTION LINE contacted Ken Willard, owner of Aquarium City No. 1, 7804 E. Florence Ave., Downey, who said he would be glad to advise you on converting methods. He said that the general idea is to run 1/4 or 3/8 inch copper tubing under the aquariums from the refrigerator's cooling system. You will also need automatic thermostats placed in the aquariums to control the temperature. Willard estimated the conversion would cost you $80.

Burned up

I purchased a postal money order for $74 in March and mailed it to my landlord in Northern California. En route, the mail truck was involved in an accident and my letter containing the money order was partially burned. The remaining part was returned to me. The post office refuses to issue me another money order. I have to pay my rent or I'll be evicted and I don't have any more money. Can ACTION LINE help? J. M., Long Beach.

If you have part of the damaged money order and it's identifiable as a postal draft, you can get a refund right away, said a spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service. Contact the money order claims clerk at the main post office, 300 Long Beach Blvd. If the money order was completely destroyed, the post office still will replace it, but not for 60 days. This time period is required by postal regulations to make sure the money order didn't survive to be cashed by someone else. Without part of the money order, you have no proof that it actually was in the envelope that burned.

Nutritional

The product wheat germ and middlings is highly recommended by many nutrition experts. El Molino Mills of the City of Industry was its major producer until they recently discontinued its sale. None of the health food stores in the Long Beach area knows of another source of supply for this product. Can ACTION LINE please find out if there is another mill which makes this product? D. G., Long Beach.

ACTION LINE could not find another mill which produces wheat germ and middlings but El Molino Mills, which makes a variety of natural grain products, still has several cases left which it will sell to you at $1.68 a case. The mill store, 345 N. Baldwin Park Blvd., is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday.

REACTION

I had a similar problem to the one described in ACTION LINE from R. H., Seal Beach, several years ago where someone kept subscribing to things in my name. I wrote each of these firms, writing my true signature at the bottom of the letters telling them I had not ordered the goods or magazines. At the same time, I asked them to send me a copy of the original order. Then I obtained a copy of the signature of the person I suspected of perpetrating this harassment. I compared the writing and it matched, so I confronted the person with my evidence and the problem ceased. P. S., Long Beach.

U.S. $171 million in 'red' on March trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Record high prices for diminished supplies of imported oil forced the U.S. balance of payments in world trade into the red by $171.3 million last month, the first deficit in nine months, the Commerce Department reported Friday.

The U.S. exported a record $7.67 billion worth of goods in March, but imported a record $7.84 billion.

For the first three months of the year, the department said, there was a trade surplus of $200 million, compared with $1.4 billion in the

AEC security on fissionables scored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is unprepared to deal with the possibility that terrorists might steal nuclear materials and make their own atomic bombs, an internal AEC report says.

The report says that acquiring the nuclear material is the only remaining obstacle facing those who want such a weapon because there is "widespread and increasing dissemination of precise and accurate instructions on how to make an atomic bomb in your basement."

MADE public by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., the report concludes that "the potential harm to the public from the explosion of an illicitly made nuclear weapon is greater than that from any plausible nuclear power plant accident."

Prepared by AEC official Dr. David M. Rosenbaum and four outside consultants, the study concludes that the recent kidnapping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst by the Symbionese Liberation Army is no isolated incident.

"If not firmly and competently met, these kidnappings may lead to a rise of urban terrorist groups of a sort unprecedented in our history," the study said.

"These groups are likely to have available to them the sort of technical knowledge needed to use the now widely disseminated instructions for processing fissionable materials and for building a nuclear weapon.

"They are also liable to be able to carry out reasonably sophisticated attacks on installations and transportation."

THE study called for the creation of a fail-safe system to protect nuclear material.

It said 15 highly trained men, no more than three of them working from the inside, would pose a credible threat to the safety of nuclear material whether it be in a storage site, at a nuclear reactor or being transported across the country.

The study called for a substantial increase in the budget of safeguarding nuclear material.

"IT SEEMS to us that the present system of protecting facilities and transportation which handle special nuclear materials is inadequate," the study said.

It recommended a new federal organization which would carry and protect all shipments of nuclear material.

The report called also for standby use of Air Force jet fighter planes to intercept nuclear thieves fleeing by air.

Bank ups prime rate to 11 pct.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Franklin National Bank raised its prime lending rate to 11 per cent Friday, the highest in the nation's history. Other banks were expected to follow the action and some economists predicted a prime rate of 12 per cent in the near future.

The move came as most banks were moving to the 10 1/4 per cent level established earlier this week. The prime rate—the interest banks charge their most creditworthy borrowers—has climbed rapidly from 8 1/4 per cent in mid-March.

Franklin's rate had been 10 1/2 per cent.

"Money market conditions more than justify it," said Franklin National chairman Harold Gleason. "We might as well face reality and get to the top as soon as possible. Pussy-footing only prolongs the agony of waiting for the decline."

Although Franklin National was the only bank to go to 11 per cent, other banks were moving toward the 10 1/4 per cent level, touched off Thursday by Citizens & Southern National Bank of Atlanta. Security Pacific National Bank of Los Angeles, the Bank of California, Crocker National Bank and the Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco Friday went to 10 1/4 from 10 1/2 per cent.

Army tests develop cheap fuel process

NATICK, Mass. (AP) — Army researchers said Friday they have developed a process that could turn cow manure, table scraps and trees into ethanol, a cheap auto fuel that can be blended with the gasoline in a car.

The process uses paper, trash, stable leavings — anything that's made of animal or plant fibers — and turns them into a sugar called glucose. That is fermented into ethyl alcohol, or ethanol.

THEN the cheaply produced ethanol is blended with gasoline into a clean-burning fuel that will run automobiles, researchers say.

Leo Spano, manager of the pollution abatement program at the U.S. Army Laboratory here says the process is "technically feasible and practically achievable on a very large scale by 1980."

In Washington, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said "This process can cut the cost of ethanol from $1 a gallon to 20 cents a gallon."

Spano said that estimate could be a little optimistic. "As a ballpark figure, I would say around 35 cents a gallon would be a good figure, but it could be lower. He could be right."

"THIS process has been worked on from the standpoint of pollution abatement to convert pollutants, such as trash and other organic material, into some useful products," Spano said. "And because of the energy shortage, we thought perhaps converting the glucose into a clean-burning fuel, it would be blended with gasoline to extend our petroleum reserves."

Ethyl alcohol can take the place of as much as one-third of the fuel in a tank of gasoline without having any effect on the car, Spano said. "Because the heating value of alcohol is slightly lower than gasoline,

GM profits plunge 85% first quarter

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, reeling from effects of the energy crisis and a depressed economy, reported Friday that profits during the first quarter of 1974 dropped 85 per cent from last year to $120 million.

Sales during the period totaled $6.9 billion, a 27 per cent decline from the first three months of 1973, GM said.

DESPITE the poor performance, which financial analysts had expected, GM executives predicted a sharp increase in earnings and sales during the next three months.

"Welcome strengthening of the market came too late to improve first-quarter results," said GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg and President Edward N. Cole. "As the economy strengthens in the months ahead and consumer confidence returns, so will car buyers."

The $120 million profit mark, or 41 cents a share, compared with $817 million, or $2.84 a share, reported during the first quarter last year. GM's 1973 profits of $2.4 billion was second largest of all U.S. corporations, trailing only oil giant Exxon.

Gerstenberg and Cole blamed the sharp drop in earnings to "unremitting increases in costs" and reduced sales of large-size automobiles which industry spokesmen had blamed on the crunch in gasoline supplies.

"During the first quarter, we were forced to trim production schedules, especially of full-size cars, and to intensify all our merchandizing efforts," they said.

GM SAID worldwide factory sales of 1.63 million cars and trucks during the quarter were down 32 per cent from the record 2.4 million produced in 1973.

GM also released figures showing domestic passenger-car sales down 40 per cent from the quarter last year, to 797,224 to 1.48 million cars.

The company's earnings were in line with forecasts by stock market analysts, who estimated GM would earn only 25-50 cents for the period.

The automaker's per share earnings for the period were the worst since it reported a return of 35 cents a share for the first three months of 1948.

GM's profit performance was the second straight decline from year earlier levels.

During the final quarter of 1973, the giant automaker reported a 22 per cent decline in profits and per share earnings of $1.80.

Ford and Chrysler are expected to release their first-quarter performance statements Monday.

GERSTENBERG predicted last month that the end of the Arab oil embargo would ease GM's sales decline. He and Cole said they expect the second quarter to bring an improved sales outlook, with a "continued upturn in used car prices."

GM's fourth-quarter 1973 profits totaled $517 million, compared with $667 million, or $2.32 a share, earned during the final quarter of 1972.

GM spokesman have indicated they believe the oil embargo sparked consumer fears concerning the U.S. economy in general and the availability of gasoline in particular.

Because of the unprecedented market change to small cars, industry-wide sales for the period dropped 27 per cent from comparable 1973.

GM WAS hardest hit because it sells more large cars than anyone else. First-quarter sales of its large-size Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs, for example, were off 50 per cent from 1973 levels.

Senators seek extension of controls power

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bipartisan Senate group announced plans Friday to try to extend authority for wage-price controls beyond next Tuesday.

The sponsors conceded, however, that opposition from both business and labor will make it an uphill fight.

Their proposal, to be debated in the Senate next week, would continue standby control authority for a year through April 30, 1975.

It would empower President Nixon to reimpose controls on any segment of the economy if he found a serious inflationary danger there.

PRESENTING the proposal were Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., Adlai E. Stevenson D-Ill., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

They listed 10 other sponsors, including Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, and said they expected others.

As they mapped their strategy, the president of the National Association of Manufacturers warned that renewed control authority might induce business to raise prices even more.

"As long as there are standby controls, there will be a tendency on the part of industry to raise prices as high as possible," E. Douglas Kenna told the National Press Club.

AFL-CIO President George Meany wired all members of the Senate that the union is "completely opposed" to an extension, saying the control machinery has "permitted prices to soar while wages have been held down."

Edward J. Carlucci, president of the Sheet Metal Workers, sent similar telegrams to Congress. He blamed the control program for bringing "great hardships to so many and great profits to so few."

The Senate group acknowledged that such opposition, coupled with the lukewarm attitude of the Nixon administration, was surprising.

Asked why he was willing to give new broad authority to Nixon in view of this record, Muskie replied:

"He is the only President we have and he may be President three more years."

"TO SAY that Congress should not delegate any more authority to him amounts to a completely do-nothing position. We might as well close up shop and go home."

Javits said the administration had run the control program well in 1971 and 1972, holding inflation to a low level.

As for the AFL-CIO opposition, Muskie said many rank-and-file union members he knew were looking to Congress to do something to try to halt inflation.

"We do not present this legislation as any cure-all," he said. "But we do believe we must make an effort at a time when inflation is running at the ruinous rate of 13.2 per cent."

EPA claims auto industry attack

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The automobile industry is attacking the Environmental Protection Agency's gasoline mileage testing program in hopes of moving the project to another agency where it might get more favorable treatment, a high EPA official said Friday.

Eric O. Stork, deputy assistant EPA administrator for Mobile Source Air Pollution Control, said the agency has "no formal evidence" that the administration will take the fuel economy program away from it, but he said he had heard informal reports that the White House was investigating the matter.

The EPA last fall began publishing miles per gallon figure for all cars sold in the United States. The automobile companies have agreed to post the figures on stickers inside new cars being sold. Because of the energy pinch and the rising cost of fuel the mileage figures have hurt sales of big gas-eating cars.

Stork said it was a "red herring" to say, as he said some of the auto companies have been doing, that the EPA tests are not as accurate as the ones the industry uses.

He said the criticism is "calculated to get fuel economy testing on the part of the federal government into a jurisdiction that may be more amenable to being influenced by the industry than the EPA is known to be."

"We think it is highly desirable that it (the fuel economy program) stay with EPA," he said. "One reason is that we can do it far more economically because we do it incidentally to our emission (exhaust control) testing, and it costs nothing for us to publish this data."

Caribbean, Mexico air fare hikes OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday approved a 5 per cent increase in air fares between the United States and the Caribbean and a 7 per cent average hike on most fares between the United States and Mexico.

The Caribbean fares, which apply to all Caribbean islands except the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, will go into effect

TWA asks U.S. aid to continue world flights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of Trans World Airlines said Friday his airline may drop many of its international flights unless the government agrees to help make the operations profitable again.

TWA Chairman Charles C. Tillinghast said he also expected air fares on the North Atlantic routes to rise another 5 to 10 per cent before the end of the year. He did not elaborate.

May 1. The Mexico fares already are in effect, the board said.

The board also announced it has tentatively disapproved fare increases put into effect earlier this month on routes between the United States and Central-South America and between the West Coast and Mexico City and Acapulco.

It was not clear exactly what effect the tentative disapproval would have on the fares.

The 5 per cent increase on Caribbean routes means the cost of a round-trip excursion fare between Washington and Montego Bay, Jamaica, for instance, will jump from its low of $203 to $213. The weekend excursion fare on that route will go from the present $233 to $244.50.

The fare increases approved — and disapproved — by the board Friday were worked out by the member carriers of the International Air Transport Association. The fares automatically go into effect unless the CAB disapproves.

Impeachment trial seen within 4 months

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jerome R. Waldie, a congressional leader of impeachment resolutions against President Nixon, said Friday he expects the President's impeachment trial to start "in July or late summer."

"Because," he said, "the Judiciary Committee has finally evinced the same will to procure the subpoenaed tapes as the President has evinced to withhold them."

Waldie, speaking at the final program in a series of Democratic gubernatorial appearances for the Orange County Democratic Rostrom at the Anaheim Stadium Club, predicted also that Nixon will not comply with the latest order to produce the tapes by next Tuesday.

He said he thinks the committee will insist on tapes, not the proffered transcripts of tapes. "We subpoenaed tapes, not transcripts."

Waldie said there is "allegedly a lot of profanity on the tapes" and other "remarks and slurs that would add nothing to the resolution of matters in the inquiry—and we ought not to have that; I agree with the President on that. Although I don't understand why the President thinks he could offend members of the committee with profanity—I think we've heard it all."

He said he expects the committee will conclude its inquiry by the end of May, vote within the first two weeks of June and that the full House will end its debate in June.

Waldie hit hard at Democratic opponent Joseph Alioto, San Francisco mayor, for Alioto's order to stop and search blacks in an effort to apprehend the Zebra killer.

"The Constitution simply does not permit that. No matter how worthy the objective... And for the mayor to have argued that they did the same thing in the Zodiac case is simply not so."

"In the first place they didn't have a press conference and announce that they were going to take extraordinary actions and suspend the constitutional rights of all white males 25 to 30. Secondly, if you're not sensitive to constitutional liberties you at least ought to be sensitive to the fact that you don't telegraph what you're going to do to the suspect you're seeking to apprehend." Waldie denounced the whole episode as "politics."

Waldie hit again at big-spending primary campaigns, noting Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s $650,000 outlay reported in March, "40 per cent of it contributed by 14 individuals and corporations" and a gift of $30,000 to Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti from the race track industry.

There is no way, Waldie asserted, that a candidate can collect a million dollars in such fashion for a gubernatorial campaign "without compromising his ability to respond" to those contributors and to noncontributors in equity.

Even Democrat William Matsen Roth, closest ideologically to Waldie in Waldie's view, didn't escape criticism for providing money from his own pocket and from his family's resources.

"Private wealth," Waldie said, "distorts the system. Access to public office ought not be dependent upon wealth."

Nixon domestic policies scored

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)

Denying that he is running for the presidency but acting like a candidate, Sen. Edward T. Kennedy, D-Mass., lit into the domestic policies of the Nixon administration Friday in a speech to a longshoremen's conference.

Kennedy, just returned from Russia, told newsmen later he had made a two-week European trip "in response to invitations." He said the trip was "instructive and informative" but not connected with any personal ambitions.

THE MASSACHUSETTS lawmaker reiterated that he is thinking only of the Senate at present and that "by late 1975 I will make an announcement" concerning the 1976 presidential campaign.

Kennedy told newsmen he came away from Russia "satisfied an arms agreement can be reached... in the reasonably near future" and that a ban on all strategic nuclear weapons can be achieved later.

In his speech to the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL-CIO) National Conference with the Employers Educational Foundation, Inc., Kennedy plugged his national health insurance bill now before Congress and a tax cut for low and middle-income families.

"We're in a recession now, and no juggling of the figures (by the Nixon administration) is going to convince American workers' otherwise," Kennedy said. "We need a tax cut to stop the recession. We need a tax cut to get the economy moving again."

Kennedy urged the longshoremen to support income tax dollar financing of national political campaigns, saying that "you workers are already paying for it (campaigns) because of the tax loopholes

Wiretaps said vital to fight underworld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen told Congress Friday that wiretaps are necessary to fight subversion and organized crime. He urged defeat of legislation that would impose more restrictions on electronic surveillance.

Petersen, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, testified before a House subcommittee holding hearings on nine bills that would limit the scope of wiretapping and other electronic techniques.

"WE MAINTAIN that electronic surveillance techniques are, to date, the most effective method to bring criminal sanctions against organized criminals, and are indispensable in developing witnesses with corroborating testimony, and generally in providing a useful tool in the evidence-gathering process," Petersen said in a 35-page statement.

Current law, Petersen argued, provides enough safeguards against an unreasonable violation of privacy and abuse of the technique.

"The decision of which is paramount, justice or privacy, is not an easy one and can only be balanced by consideration of the needs and conditions which exist at any given moment," Petersen said.

One of the bills before the subcommittee would prohibit the president from ordering burglary of "any other illegal act" in the interest of national security.

"Any limitation of the president's constitutional power to protect the United States against foreign instigated subversion must be objected to," Petersen said.

Two of the bills would forbid any "intercept of communications between two persons without their consent."

"THIS WOULD negate any efforts to obtain evidence by investigative procedures that have consistently been approved by the Supreme Court," Petersen said.

Another bill would prohibit manufacture of interception devices and forbid any government employee or contractor from transporting any such device in interstate commerce.

"The ultimate effect... is to literally destroy the government's authority to apply for wire and oral interceptions," Petersen said.

Ford fears 'veto-proof' Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford got a standing ovation Friday when he joined other Republican leaders in urging a redoubled effort to prevent election of a "veto-proof" Democratic Congress this November.

Speaking at the end of a day-long meeting of the GOP National Committee, Ford warned of "big spending and wild liberal social programs being rammed through Congress" if the Democrats win 50 to 100 additional seats in the House, which they already control.

"Get a hungry candidate who wants to gamble," Ford exhorted his fellow Republicans. With enough hard work, he said, "despite the predictions of doom and gloom, we can go up and up and up."

GOP National Chairman George Bush likewise warned that if the Democrats became strong enough to override any of President Nixon's vetoes, "we're going to be in for one hell of a ride."

"Give this country a veto-proof Congress and then fasten your seat belts," he said, "because we're going to be in for one hell of a ride. The people must understand what disaster that would be for this country."

Rep. Robert Michel of Illinois, chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, said "a lopsided, dictatorial, runaway Congress certainly will not serve the best interests of this country."

Michel said labor unions had made unreported contributions of services and materials in recent special elections worth more than $50,000 to each Democratic candidate.

Mary Louise Smith, co-chairman of the national committee, said a concerted Republican effort was necessary to "counter massive drives by our opposition and organized labor."

"They are dead serious when they talk about electing a veto proof Congress," she said.

BUSH told the committee that funds left over from the 1972 campaign to re-elect Nixon would be used by the national party as soon as legal entanglements are finally resolved.

The Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President reported a $3.57 million surplus before it disbanded earlier this year. This fund was turned over to a trust.

The surplus will be used first to defray legal expenses arising out of lawsuits filed against the committee and to pay legal costs of former campaign officials acquitted of charges. The fund may also be used to pay expenses of those convicted of misdemeanors.

The finance committee has already spent $1 million in court costs and faces a $775,000 settlement of the Democrats' damage suit following the 1972 burglary of its offices by Republican-directed operatives.

Bugliosi denies giving Farr data

Attorney general candidate Vincent Bugliosi, accused by his political opponent William Norris as being implicated in leaking secret trial documents to Reporter William Farr, claimed the accusations were "irresponsible rantings..."

Bugliosi, accused by his coprossecutor in the Manson murder trial, Stephen Kay, as having threatened him twice if he asked for a hearing or told what he knew about the source of Farr's material for a controversial newspaper story, claimed Kay's statements were untrue.

"I never gave Mr. Farr any transcripts during the Manson trial... and secondly, the events described by Mr. Kay simply did not take place and his statements are untrue," Bugliosi said through a campaign aide.

Kay has said in a deposition that he was handed a manila envelope by Farr to give to Bugliosi the day Farr's story broke. Kay said he thought it was the material used in Farr's story, but when he asked Bugliosi about it Bugliosi became angry and threatened to take him off the case. Kay's deposition was made public by Norris in a Los Angeles press conference.

"These are the reckless and irresponsible rantings of a man so unknown and so far behind in the polls that he has to resort to this sort of thing," the former deputy district attorney said.

Chapin denied new trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dwight L. Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary, was denied a new trial of his perjury conviction Friday by a federal judge who said "the proof that the defendant deliberately lied was overwhelming."

Chapin was convicted on April 5 on two counts of lying to the FBI in its investigation of campaign dirty tricks and faces sentencing May 15.

He had asked for a new trial on grounds that prejudicial evidence was introduced, that he was not granted a change in the trial site and that the jury failed to follow the judge's instructions.

"The motions are unsupported by any new facts and speak only in generalized conclusions," U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said.

"There is no basis for assuming that responsible citizens such as those constituting this jury failed to adhere to their oath," the judge said.

Haldeman 'gift fund' bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—While he was President Nixon's chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman maintained a fund from which he dispensed cash gifts to White House employees, a former aide says in newly surfaced testimony.

Lawrence M. Higby, now in the Office of Management and Budget, said the money was in a 2-inch-thick stack of $100 and $20 bills that was kept in Haldeman's safe.

The testimony, given in a Watergate civil suit deposition last December, was unsealed Friday by U.S. District Judge Charles H. Richey.

Higby said he understood the money was given to Haldeman late in 1968 after Richard Nixon's election as president "to be passed on to those members of the staff who needed funds" for moving expenses.

That would make it a different money cache from the $350,000 that Haldeman obtained on April 6, 1972 from fundraiser Herbert W. Kalmbach who had the money left over from the 1968 campaign. Some of that fund eventually went to the Watergate break-in defendants.

Higby said he personally disbursed $2,500 of the money to two men when they left the White House. He said they were Bill Gavin and Harry Dent, one receiving $1,000; the other $1,500.

Judge Richey unsealed the deposition, taken last Dec. 11 and 17, after a request from the House Judiciary Committee that asked judges in Watergate-related cases to supply it with secret testimony for its impeachment inquiry.

In the deposition, a top aide to Haldeman, said he was present at conversations the chief of staff had with John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's domestic adviser, in which Haldeman considered going on television and answering charges against him.

"We quizzed Haldeman for two hours or something and came to the conclusion that while he might help himself, it would raise the issue to a higher profile and therefore hurt the President."

Higby also testified that in late November or December 1972, another

Haldeman aide, Gordon Strachan, told him that White House counsel John W. Dean III was going to use some of the $350,000 fund for the break-in defendants — then about to go on trial. Higby said he told Haldeman.

"What was Mr. Haldeman's reaction to that?" he was asked.

"That that should not be done, that that money was the committee's money and should be returned to the committee and he, in my presence, called Mr. Dean and indicated those instructions to him." He was referring to the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Haldeman told the Senate Watergate committee that he approved use of the money for polling purposes, for campaign support to a rival of Gov. George C. Wallace in the Alabama governor's race, and for funding the activities of political trickster Donald H. Segretti.

Higby said Gavin was given money when he left the White House staff in 1970 and Dent when he left sometime around the 1972 election.

He was asked on what facts he based the assertion that the money was a gift to Haldeman.

"On the fact that, as I understood it, several members of the White House staff when they joined ... in 1968 had been given gifts for the purpose of covering the expenses of moving into the White House and I understood that money was part of that package."

Q. Do I understand in addition to Mr. Haldeman that others at the White House received what you called gifts?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you receive a so-called gift?

A. Yes sir.

The Higby deposition was one of a number taken in the Democratic National Committee's $6.4 million civil suit against the Nixon re-election committee and some of its officers.

That suit and counter-suits have been reported close to settlement out of court.

County strike threat fades

By NOEL SWANN
Our L.A. Bureau

Monday's threatened strike by 60,000 county workers has been called off — at least temporarily.

Leaders of a coalition of employees' unions called for the delay late Friday to give their members time to study — and ratify — tentative agreements ironed out Friday representing a $70 million pay package including raises and fringe benefits worth 7.9 per cent for at least 39,000 of the workers.

However, despite the call for postponement of the strike, union leaders were fearful that there still would be a number of wildcat walkouts by dissident militants — particularly among hospital workers — who expressed dissatisfaction Friday with some of the tentative agreements.

SPOKESMEN for the coalition said, however, that they would not officially urge their members to honor any picket lines thrown up by the "wildcat" groups, but would leave it to individual members to decide whether they wanted to cross such unauthorized lines.

Vic Hochee, general manager of Service Employees Union, Local 680, and a spokesman for the coalition of six county unions representing the 60,000 employees in bargaining disputes, said late Friday ballots would be mailed to units which had reached tentative agreements so that members could decide whether to ratify the proposals.

"If members approve the proposals, there will be a final settlement," Hochee said. "Should they, however, reject the offers, then a strike will be called again, if necessary."

Hochee said some of the smaller bargaining units will be polled verbally on ratification, but that the larger units would have to decide the issue by ballot. He estimated it would take until about next Thursday to complete the ratification process.

Friday's postponement call was made by only four of the six unions in the coalition. The reason for this, however, was that the other two unions still were involved in last minute mediation sessions, and both were expected to reach some form of agreement with county management before Sunday.

DESPITE the fact that two of the groups in the coalition still had not completed negotiations, the coalition as such apparently agreed to put out the postponement call in an effort to head off confusion among thousands of workers as to whether to show up on the job Monday.

In addition to the dissatisfaction expressed by certain groups of hospital workers during the day, there were several rumors from other quarters that workers in other groups had decided to go ahead with the strike in defiance of union leaders.

In fact, it was known that various worker groups decided to call a meeting Friday evening to reaffirm their decision to strike in spite of the leadership's call to "keep the reins on."

Hochee acknowledged that coalition leaders knew of that meeting, but said he did not know who had staged it. Several coalition personnel spent frantic hours Friday afternoon calling key union officials, telling them to urge members not to attend the meeting, because it was "unofficial."

ALSO, late Friday, County Personnel Director Gordon Nesvig expressed concern about "wildcat stoppages in the hospital system," rumored to occur Monday.

"We would like the employees to know that we have come to agreements which are well above the settlements in San Francisco recently," Nesvig said. "In our opinion, the agreements are fair and just as indicated by the union leadership and we hope all employees act in a responsible manner (about coming to work) Monday."

Nesvig confessed to newsmen that no one would be fired if they did walk out Monday, but he stressed it would be up to each department head not to pay persons who stayed out.

Part of the pay package negotiated in the tentative agreement represented a partial breakthrough for unions in obtaining, for the first time, some form of dental care plan. Under the agreements, Nesvig said, the county would finance a dental plan for employes only (not including family members) for the last month of the 1974-75 fiscal year, and would pay for such a plan for the full twelve months of the following year.

NESVIG said the agreements represented an average 7.9 per cent increase, made up of 7.4 per cent in straight pay hikes and 5 per cent in fringe benefits, including the dental plan and an additional $5 per month for health programs for each employe. (The $5 health plan increase would raise the county's monthly contribution for employes' health plans from $26 to $31.)

Nesvig said tentative agreements covering salary and fringe benefit hikes, as of 5 p.m. Friday, included:

An 8.2 per cent hike for 18,000 clerical workers; an 8.1 per cent hike for 2,500 supervisory clerical workers; 8.3 per cent for 1,900 hospital laundry and food service workers; 7.7 per cent for 4,800 hospital paramedic and technical workers; 8.8 per cent for 3,000 custodians; 8.0 per cent for 3,500 eligibility workers in the welfare department; 7.9 per cent for 1,100 supervisory eligibility workers; 8.8 per cent for 3,200 artisans and blue collar laborers and truck drivers; and 8.8 per cent for 900 supervisory blue collar workers.

NESVIG noted negotiations were still continuing with 2,200 deputy probation officers, 3,000 social workers, 300 operating engineers and about 1,800 fire fighters. He said, however, he was confident agreements would be worked out with all these groups before the week-end was over.

He said negotiations also were continuing with sheriff's personnel, librarians and a number of white collar administrative groups.

Nesvig noted that the total package so far is estimated to cost $70 million. In the preliminary 1974-75 budget submitted by Chief Administrative Officer Arthur Will earlier this week, a contingency fund of $57.8 million — including the cost of expected salary increases — was set aside.

Since the contingency fund supposedly also was to cover increases in fuel prices, telephone and utility rate hikes and other rate increases, it was assumed the contingency fund contained no more than about $40 million for the projected salary increases.

Since Will's preliminary budget already calls for an 83 cent increase in the 1974-75 tax rate, it became apparent that the rate would either have to be increased beyond this to cover the full amount of the tentative agreements or other services would have to be cut to make up the difference.

EARLIER Friday, Supervisor Kenneth Rahn acknowledged the obvious squeeze, and told reporters "We probably will have to cut back on a number of building projects and perhaps other services, and we also will have to take a very hard look at requests for any additional employees."

'Flying' automobile rams compact, beheads man

A speeding car hurtled across the center strip on the Gerald Desmond Bridge Friday afternoon, killing one person, injuring three others and snarling rush-hour traffic on Terminal Island.

Witnesses said the car sailed through the air, ripping the top from a small foreign sedan and decapitating the passenger, then smashed front-on into a third vehicle.

Killed instantly was naval shipyard employee Manuel E. Quintana, 33, of Baldwin Park, police said. The driver of the car in which he was riding, fellow shipyard worker Rimberto Carcich, also 33, of Upland, was in critical condition at St. Mary Medical Center.

Driver of the car which crossed the divider was David Bonner, 20, an aircraft controller attached to the USS Okinawa, officers said.

He was taken to the Long Beach naval hospital for treatment of a broken wrist. When released, officers said, he will be charged with felony manslaughter and drunken driving.

Driver of the third car, Domingo Jestoso, Jr., 40, of 2218 Lark Bay Lane, Lakewood, was treated at Pacific Hospital for face and chest cuts, then released, police said.

Officers Mike Mehler and Fred Kelly said the bridge's eastbound lanes tied up traffic as workers were leaving the shipyard at the end of the day shift.

Police and Harbor Patrol officers blocked off all eastbound approaches to the bridge until more than an hour after the 4:20 p.m. accident.

According to testimony from witnesses, Bonner's car went out of control and struck the center median after a high-speed lane change, officers Mehler and Kelly said.

Two men killed in separate crashes

A 22-year-old Bellflower man and a 22-year-old sailor were killed Friday in separate Southland traffic accidents.

Harbor Division officers said Steven E. Miller, of Wichita, Kan., a second class petty officer aboard the USS Ramsey, was killed instantly about 2:55 p.m. when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car on Pacific Coast Highway near Eubank Avenue in Wilmington.

The driver of the car, Lilia Esther Larsen, 36, of 1042 E. "O" St., Wilmington, was booked on suspicion of felony manslaughter, officers said.

Miller's death was the eighth traffic fatality in the harbor district this year, according to officers. At this time last year, there had been nine traffic deaths in the area.

Highway Patrol officers said Robert A. Seward, of 8724 Artesia Blvd., was pronounced dead on arrival at Pioneer Community Hospital, Artesia, after he apparently lost control of his car and slammed into the center divider just west of the San Gabriel River Freeway in Cerritos.

Seward was apparently driving close to 100 miles an hour when the accident occurred shortly after 4 a.m., officers said. There were no passengers in his car.

Major burglary ring smashed, five jailed

A "major burglary and robbery ring," allegedly responsible for numerous crimes in Orange County, was broken up Friday by Garden Grove police, who arrested five persons and confiscated a cache of weapons and stolen goods valued at nearly $70,000.

Lt. Mike Sianez said detectives and members of the department's Tactical Undercover Force made the arrests in two raids at about 5:50 p.m. He said the alleged ring had been infiltrated by an undercover operator, who "played a major role in the operation."

Arrested at 13801 La Pat St., Westminster, were Charles Thomas Cross, 19; Charles James Cross, 23; April Lynn Wilson, 19; and Yvonne Ides, 19, all of that address. Bobby Gene Blair, 18, of 8592 Amy St., Garden Grove, was arrested at his home.

All were booked on charges of armed robbery, burglary, conspiracy, possession of illegal weapons and possession of stolen property.

Though the suspects were armed when arrested, Lt. Sianez said they were taken into custody without incident.

Confiscated during the raids were 12 weapons, including 45-caliber fully automatic machine guns and other military-type weapons, said the lieutenant.

He said property, taken during burglaries and robberies throughout the county, was also seized. The guns and stolen goods, combined with property recovered earlier this year, were valued in excess of $70,000, Lt. Sianez said.

New Zebra manhunt tactics; old appealed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police Chief Donald Scott said Friday that police are pressing the manhunt in the Zebra slayings and have developed new tactics that conform to a court order against wholesale street questioning.

Meanwhile, the city attorney's office filed notice of appeal with the U.S. District Court judge who issued the order. Also Friday, the judge denied a request by the city for a stay of the order.

Capt. Charles Barca, who heads the investigation into the random street slayings of 12 whites, said about 600 black men had been questioned before the judge issued his order.

The city took the court action a few hours after Scott told news reporters: "There will be no lessening of our efforts to apprehend the so-called Zebra killer or killers. As a matter of fact, prior to the request for a temporary restraining order, we had been developing and have implemented new tactics which involve additional personnel."

He did not describe the tactics.

Scott said: "We will continue our efforts with a maximum of manpower, utilizing every means available within constitutional limitations until the person or persons responsible are apprehended."

Police stopped 15 persons Thursday night in the intensive manhunt that began last Wednesday, Barca said. They had stopped 32 men the previous night and 61 two nights earlier.

U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli ruled Thursday that constitutional rights of black men were violated by the tactic of stopping men who fit the general description of one Zebra killer.

Zirpoli's ruling requires police to have reason to believe any man they stop and search on the street may have committed a crime or is about to commit one.

The injunction was issued only hours after the police chief revised guidelines that would have cut back the number of persons stopped. Mayor Joseph Alioto ordered the sweeping stop-and-search tactic April 17 after the latest slaying in the apparently unprovoked shootings of 18 whites which began last November. Six of the victims survived.

Police say they believe at least two and possibly four black men carried out the attacks.

Police on the street were philosophical about the ruling.

"It was accepted with no grumbling," said Lt. Matthew C. Duffy.

"We do what we're told," said another officer, Lt. James B. Spillane.

66 fetuses found outside hospital

Sixty-six human fetuses have been found near or in the incinerator of Pioneer Hospital in Artesia, sheriff's investigators reported Friday.

Homicide officers said they are not sure whether the fetuses came from legal or illegal abortions. Deputies said 33 of the fetuses were found Thursday, 33 about a week ago. The discoveries in each instance were made by hospital employees.

Authorities speculated the fetuses may have been dumped at the hospital by an illegal abortion ring. Hospital officials said Friday they had no knowledge of the origin of the find.

The fetuses found Thursday were in a box, preserved in formaldehyde, placed just outside the incinerator, deputies said.

Investigators said the fetuses found last week were inside the incinerator. They had not been burned, the coroner's office reported.

Investigators did not identify the hospital employees who found the fetuses and gave only sketchy details of the case.

Coroner's officials said the bodies apparently did not come from Pioneer Hospital, but more likely from another hospital or another location.

Each of the fetuses appeared to be less than five months old, officials said. A precise determination of maturity is expected to be made within the next three days, investigators said.

The hospital's chief of staff, Dr. Thomas H. Hewlett, said he knew little about the find.

"We don't have an abortion mill going," he said, adding that the hospital does perform therapeutic abortions.

TADPOLE FISHERMAN STEVEN NAKANO AND JAR

Fishing tadpoles, he'll free frogs, if pond is still there

BY DICK EMERY

It won't be long now. The bulldozers will be ripping out the willows and filling the little stream-bed with rocks and dirt. Houses will be built there. That's the way it goes, in the few remaining woody, unbuild spots around the San Pedro hills; and that's what will happen to the favorite tadpole-fishing pool of Steven Nakano. Steven, 6½ years old, a pupil in kindergarten at San Pedro's Taper Avenue School, discovered the pool some time ago while on a family outing. It is deeply shaded by willows and on its banks grow cool green thickets of anise and of nettles.

In the pool swim tadpoles, which will grow, soon, to be fine frogs with rich voices. Steven was fishing there the other day, glass jar in hand. "I have an aquarium," Steven said in a barely audible voice. There's no use scaring tadpoles when you are trying to catch them. "In my aquarium I am raising tadpoles to be frogs. I feed them some of this green moss. Some of the frogs will be tree-frogs and perhaps some will be toads. "But I'm not not going to keep them shut up in a cage. "When they are grown, I will bring them back here and set them free." If the pool is still there, Steven. We'll see.

U.S. making it tougher for foreign students, parley told

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A foreign student at an American college applied to government agencies for a permit to work part-time for one college quarter to raise enough money to stay in school.

He also applied for a routine extension of his student visa to finish his college work.

The work permit was denied on grounds that he didn't need the money.

The visa extension was turned down on grounds he could no longer support himself.

ALTHOUGH CONCEDING that such blatant injustices are rare, an official of an organization of foreign student advisers told a conference aboard the Queen Mary Friday that the federal government has been steadily making life harder for foreign students over the last two years.

"Foreign students are somehow being lumped into the category of illegal aliens in terms of enforcing immigration laws," charged Eugene H. Smith, an official of the National Association for Foreign Student Affairs (NAFSA). He spoke to about 250 persons at NAFSA's district conference.

Smith, a foreign student adviser at the University of Colorado, said there was "legitimate concern" by the Immigration and Naturalization Service over increasing problems with illegal aliens.

But the Immigration Service—and the Department of Justice of which it is a part—have been cracking down on "legal aliens"—foreign students—as well, he said.

"For that reason, education and government are moving from a relationship of full cooperation towards one of adversaries," he said. "We didn't get into international education to be politicians, but that's what we're going to have to do. If federal agencies won't help us, we have to take our case to congressmen."

Dr. J. Russell Lindquist, director of the International Center at Long Beach State University, said in an interview that although there have been no basic changes in federal laws, the Immigration Service has been steadily tightening up enforcement.

He said the two most serious blows to the foreign student program—blows which Smith called "major disasters"—were in the areas of student finances and summer work permits.

Last year, American consulates were notified that they should see that foreign students requesting American visas have enough money to support themselves for their entire college programs, usually four years.

"There's almost an inquisition taking place at some American consulates overseas," Lindquist said. "Student applicants are almost considered criminal suspects who have to prove their innocence. This doesn't do much for our prestige in those countries."

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, foreign students now studying at American colleges must meet the new financial criteria if they go home for a summer vacation, Lindquist said.

He noted that some assurance that foreign students could afford an American education always has been required, but not nearly so extensively.

"Many students here now couldn't come under the new regulations," he said.

The second "major disaster" is an INS regulation received last week, removing from the colleges the authority to grant foreign students summer work approval.

Although few LBSU students are affected now, more will be in future years, Lindquist said.

He said the new rule will make it harder for foreign students to prove to the INS that they need summer work to survive financially.

Smith said that the tightening rules appeared to be a result of concern about having enough jobs for veterans, minorities and other Americans in the face of a declining economy.

But he said that the part-time jobs that foreign students usually take aren't the type for which veterans and minorities normally apply.

Lindquist said the tightening also resulted from a "very few" actual violations of immigration law, such as one student who made $10,000 working in America and shipped the money home.

"Why should the vast majority of foreign students be punished for the mistakes of a few?" he asked.

THE QUESTION wasn't answered by Charles Withers, assistant director of the Los Angeles INS, who also spoke Friday.

He did say that college officials had not been meticulous enough about checking foreign students' academic and financial backgrounds to see if they could successfully survive in American colleges.

In addition, they weren't careful enough in seeing that the students maintain a full course of study and don't exceed rules that limit students to part-time jobs, he said.

Some persons serving as college representatives overseas had engaged in fraud in signing up foreign students, he charged.

Lindquist emphasized that the main complaints of foreign student advisers were directed at the Washington, D.C., headquarters of the INS, not the Los Angeles office. Ultimately, the attorney general is responsible for formulating foreign student regulations, he said.

Scare reports debunked No chemical-caused liver cancers found

BY BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Long Beach has been labeled a hazard area for a cancer-causing chemical, vinyl chloride. But a quick survey Friday failed to turn up any reports of liver cancer deaths in this area attributable to the chemical.

A group called the Center for Science in the Public Interest told the Environmental Protection Agency that there is a "fearful possibility" that people living in at least three industrial areas of the nation are being exposed to airborne doses of vinyl chloride.

Long Beach was not cited as a prime problem area. But the group said it was an area where vinyl chloride emissions could be heightened by high humidity.

The scare apparently was prompted by a government report a few weeks ago which told of several deaths involving liver cancer among workers in a B. F. Goodrich plant near Louisville, Ky.

W. T. DUKE, Akron, O., manager of community relations for B.F. Goodrich headquarters, told the Independent Press-Telegram there have been five deaths attributed to angiosarcoma of the liver plus "two living illnesses," all in the Louisville plant.

But there have been no deaths among workers in the company's Long Beach plant, "which really is in Carson" at 2104 E. 223rd St., Duke said.

Duke said the Long Beach plant makes polyvinyl chloride resins and other compounds used as raw materials by other manufacturers of vinyl products.

He said there are 130 employees at the Southland plant, which began operating in April, 1960, compared to 1,200 employees in Louisville, where the plant has been operational since 1946.

All of the victims have been long-term workers with the chemical, it was said.

Duke said deaths have occurred in other firms elsewhere in the country. The Center for Science in the Public Interest says there have been 12 cases of the cancer linked with vinyl chloride.

Ted Elias, chief of the occupational health division of Community Health Services for Los Angeles County, said he knows of no cases of liver cancer attributable to the chemical in Los Angeles County.

"At least none has been reported," Elias said.

WILLIAM E. FALKNER, a spokesman for the Air Pollution Control District, said he knows of no deaths because of the chemical. He said the APCD would issue a statement on the matter later.

The U. S. Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga., earlier commented on four of the deaths in the Goodrich Louisville plant.

"All four men (who died) had worked continuously in the section for at least 14 years prior to onset of illness."

All four had worked directly with the chemical, the report said.

TWO HAD WORKED in the polyvinyl chloride section for 14 years one for 17 years and one for 27 years before symptoms appeared.

Angiosarcoma of the liver is an exceedingly rare tumor. Health authorities estimate only about 25 cases occur each year in the United States. So occurrence of the disorder among a small number of workers at a single plant "is a most unusual event," the Center for Disease Control said.

The phenomenon "raises the possibility of some work-related carcinogen (cancer-causing agent), con-

Vinyl chloride hazard denied

"Based on the experience we have, there is not the remotest possibility that residents of Long Beach are under any public health hazard from vinyl chloride," said Dr. Robert M. Rankin, city health officer.

Rankin said, however, that Long Beach Health Department investigators will continue to look into the situation.

He was sharply critical of the Center for Science in the Public Interest and the Environmental Protection Agency for their failure to notify the city if, indeed, such a problem exists.

"We find it difficult to believe that a problem of this supposed magnitude, which is endangering the health and welfare of a community, has been kept from us for so long, and that we have to learn of the findings through a news release," Rankin said.

ceivably vinyl chloride itself. . . . It seems distinctly possible that the problem may be industry-wide."

Meanwhile, Herb J. Kandel, general manager of American Chemical Corp. 2112 E. 223rd St., Carson, which uses vinyl chloride in its manufacturing processes, pointed out that "it has not been established that vinyl chloride is truly the cause of liver cancer."

At any rate, no cases of liver cancer have been reported among workers at American Chemical, he said. He added that the plant has been operating since 1959.

He said American Chemical recently purchased sensitive measuring instruments and was unable to detect the presence of any organic materials above smog levels.

THESE INSTRUMENTS, Kandel said, would have showed the presence of vinyl chloride in the air, but they "didn't show any in the boundaries of our plant."

The Center for Disease Control said that published data concerning the potential liver toxicity of vinyl chloride are "limited."

Studies in Germany have suggested a link between liver damage and occupational exposure to vinyl chloride.

Italian investigators, reporting in the journal Cancer Research, have suggested that vinyl chloride may cause a wide variety of tumors in animals.

"The chemical concentrations used in these latter experiments, however, far exceed levels likely to be encountered in industrial environments," the CDC said.

Jack Rogers, director of the Bureau of Occupation and Radiation Management of the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, said he checked Friday with two federal government agencies, "and no one has any information on vinyl chloride."

Everyone agreed on one thing: If vinyl chloride does prove to be a problem, it involves Carson, not Long Beach.

Compton drug program funded

Compton has received a $206,045 grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) to finance the Compton Narcotics Control Project for a third year.

Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-San Pedro, who announced the grant, said 1,678 arrests have been made and drugs valued at $1.2 million confiscated as a result of the project.

A Compton Police Department spokesman said crimes — burglary and robbery — generally committed by drug offenders have decreased by 38 per cent.

"This project represents an important effort to reduce the flow of narcotics into our area," Anderson said. "It is a fine example of co-operation between federal and local agencies to find solutions to a problem which affects all of us."

The LEAA, part of the U.S. Department of Justice, was created by Congress in 1968 to assist in the improvement of criminal justice systems by providing them with technical and financial assistance.

1st quarter profits down at McDonnell Douglas

Sparked by increased deliveries of commercial transports by Douglas Aircraft Co. of Long Beach, McDonnell Douglas Corp. earned $29,464,009 after taxes for the first quarter of fiscal 1974, Chairman James S. McDonnell announced Friday.

Woman saved from faucet

Once they had her finger extracted from the bathtub faucet Friday, a Los Angeles woman could point with pride to the ingenuity of Long Beach firemen.

The engine company and paramedic unit which sped to the rescue found the woman seated in the bathtub, wearing only a blush.

Gallantly, they handed her a robe.

Then they huffed and puffed — and presto! — the faucet gave up her finger.

When the laughter and blushing died down, the rescuers retired from their most interesting challenge of the day.

He said 15 wide-cabin DC10s and 13 DC9 twinjets were delivered in the first quarter, four more than the figure for commercial deliveries in the same period of 1973.

The 1974 quarterly profit equaled 76 cents per share. This compares with 86 cents per share for the first three months of 1973, on earnings of $34,370,439.

Lakewood celebrating birthday

The City of Lakewood will celebrate its 20th anniversary of incorporation at 1 p.m. Sunday with a cake-cutting ceremony at Mayfair Park, South Street and Clark Avenue.

The cake is big enough to feed about 3,000 persons attending the fiesta which winds up the city's 28th annual Pan American Festival. The cake-eaters also will receive certificates showing they participated in Lakewood's birthday party.

Bandit hits L.B. bank for $617

A bandit wearing a blue windbreaker and multicolored baseball cap took $617 from the Bank of America branch at 5401 Long Beach Blvd. Friday after passing a note to a teller informing her he had a gun. The robbery occurred at 2:40 p.m.

Teller Mary C. Mahan, 23, told police the bandit was a black man in his mid-20s, of medium height and weighing about 165 pounds.

Stereo gear taken by home burglars

Stereo equipment valued at $425 was taken from the home of F. H. Clauss, of 1530 Park Ave., by burglars who entered by unknown means, Long Beach police reported Friday.

State aid backs cleaning shop

A state-aided project designed to give central district residents more economic clout got underway Friday when United Community Development, Inc. opened a dry cleaning shop at 1250 Orange Ave.

The seed of the project is a little known program which began in 1969 and was expanded this year by legislation sponsored by State Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach. It assists persons in economically depressed areas get state-backed loans to start small businesses.

Deukmejian attended the opening of the dry cleaning shop. He said the loans are made by banks and guaranteed by the state, which supplies management assistance to the small businesses.

"The state will put in $5 million over the next three years," Deukmejian said. "This should generate $33.5 million in loans and 13,000 new jobs."

The dry cleaning shop — with the help of a $35,000 loan from United Bank of California — hopes to provide 40 jobs for central district residents and train others for employment.

Will Henderson, chairman of UCDI's board of directors, summed up what the program means:

"Unless a community controls the dollar flow in its area, it has no power, politically or otherwise."

'America Sings'

Disneyland's summer feature

Music will highlight Disneyland's day and night-time atmosphere as the park opens its 85-day summer season on June 15.

A new attraction, "America Sings," scheduled to open in July at the Carousel Theater, will offer a lighthearted look at the nation's musical heritage.

The show, featuring four eras of American song — Early South, Old West, Gay Nineties and Modern Times — will be hosted by a comical eagle named Sam, and his inquisitive friend, an owl.

They will introduce 115 new members of Disneyland's Audio-Animatronics animal kingdom performing more than 40 musical numbers during the show's 24 minutes.

The repertoire will include a quartet of geese singing "Dixie," and a love-sick sow's rendition of "Bill Bailey." The park's spotlights also will focus on 1,500 other performers scheduled to appear throughout the summer.

The Main Street Electrical Parade will once again be featured twice nightly, and Tinker Bell's flight over Fantasyland will touch off the park's "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks at 9:20 each evening.

Big bands such as the Glenn Miller's, Neal Hefti and Harry James will perform from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Main Street's Plaza Gardens, and "The Great Rock Circus" at the Tomorrowland Stage will introduce popular recording artists.

The All-American College Marching Band will be featured Thursdays through Mondays beginning June 22, and the collegiate "The Kids of the Kingdom" will offer concerts Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Cartoon favorites will promenade in "The Mickey Mouse March" daily on Main Street at noon and 5 p.m.

The park's more than 50 major attractions — including the Haunted Mansion, Pirates of the Caribbean, the Matterhorn and the "atomic submarine" ride — will be open daily during the summer from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m., except on June 20, when the hours will be 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

SHUT UP AND DEAL!

LAS VEGAS (Special) — Amarillo Slim, Pug, Texas — among the world's best poker players — will be on hand for the fifth World Series of Poker, May 13-17, at Binion's Horseshoe Club here.

Amarillo Slim Preston, Pug Pearson (defending champion) and Texas Johnny Moss each will put up a minimum of $10,000 to buy into a high-stakes game that could be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the winner.

Preliminary play in the midtown Las Vegas casino starts May 7.

Reagan signs coed education measure
SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Reagan Friday signed a bill requiring school districts to open all classes except sex education to students of both sexes.

The measure by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, also prohibits counseling of students in particular courses of study or vocational goals on the basis of sex. The measure becomes effective Jan. 1.

SMOG REPORT

The Air Pollution Control District predicts little or no smog today in Los Angeles County.

The APCD issued the following forecast for atmospheric conditions:

OZONE — Maximum levels of .10 parts per million in the San Gabriel and East San Fernando Valley; .05 ppm elsewhere in the county.

SMOG EFFECTS — Little or none. VISIBILITY — Minimums of six miles in the central and Pomona/Van Nuys valleys; and seven to 12 miles elsewhere.

Carbon Monoxide .3 .7 .2
Oxides of Nitrogen .28 .23 .11
Sulfur Dioxide .01 .02 .04
Ozone .02 .09 .06

Readings are per million parts of air (p.p.m.). California standards exceed when ozone reaches a count of .10 ppm for an hour; carbon monoxide .20 ppm for eight hours. "C" marks the peak readings which exceeded these hourly standards.

Odd Ball Olympics aim at new Guinness records

Associated Press

Remember telephone booth stuffing, goldfish swallowing, beer chugging, marathon dancing? They're all back and then some at what is being billed as the "Odd Ball Olympics—Conquest of the Absurd."

A promotional stunt dreamed up by the Century Square Shopping Center and the ABC Entertainment Center, the two-week festival of "competitions" started last Monday when Wuan Clark sat down on a rocking chair. He's planning to stay in the chair, less five minutes an hour for a quick run to the bathroom, for 12 days, which, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, would be a world record.

Thursday night, five Monopoly players sat down for what they hope will be an 86-hour game also a world record.

Today things begin in earnest. Kevin Farrell and Harvey Abram will try to stand on one leg—each—for 5½ hours; three people will try to eat 39 butter-and-jam sandwiches; Roger Guy English of San Diego, self-proclaimed world champion stay-awake, has vowed to sing songs for 75 hours; one fellow says he'll eat more than six pounds of cooked spaghetti.

In addition, competitors are signed up for the goldfish swallow, the phone booth stuff, the leap frog jump, the unicycle ride, the pickle eat, the cigar cram and the toilet paper stack, among about 20 others.

"Mostly, it's just a promotion for the shopping mall," said Dixie Whatley, one of the coordinators. "We were sitting around one day, just sort of brainstorming, and somebody said, 'Why don't we try to break a world record?' Somebody else suggested six records and then somebody said 'Why not all of them?'"

She said two representatives of the Guinness Book of World Records will be on hand next week to verify that proper rules are being followed. Meanwhile, the promoters still are trying to think up prizes for the "winners."

"We started out with just 40 or 50 people and now we have 175 contestants, and we're getting more every day. A guy will walk through the mall and say, 'I can do that,' and try to enter."

"There's only one 'ringer,' a true wild man."

Tim Knappen, a pole vaulter from North Hollywood, has entered the handstand pushup contest, an event he knows quite a bit about.

"Tim used to climb the light towers at high school football games and do handstands from the top. I guess he liked hearing the girls scream," said a friend.

Slight quake

EUREKA (UPI) — A slight earthquake shook the area Friday but there was no damage.

The University of California seismographic station in Berkeley said the tremor registered 3.2 on the Richter scale and was recorded at 5:29 a.m. The epicenter was 18 miles southeast of here.

GARDENING

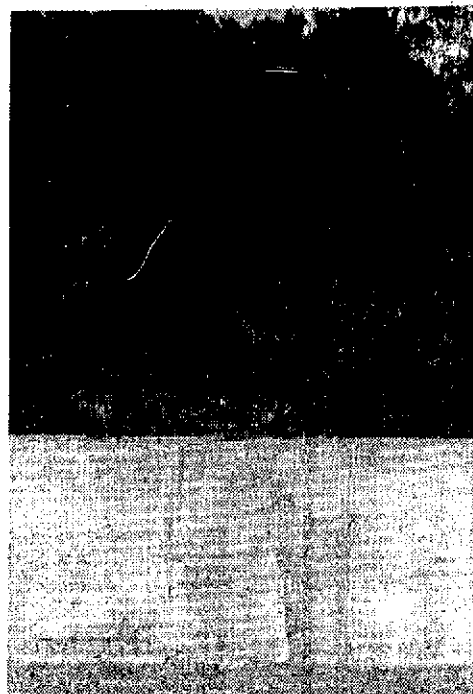

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Podocarpus are conifers of the yew family. The variety P. macrophylla meaning large leaves — is an outstandingly desirable variety to train into a column shape. It can be kept down to needed size even though it can grow to around 40 feet high. The three-to-four-inch long lance-shaped leaves are dark green above and lighter green beneath.

Personally, I believe it superior to Italian cypress that are used for their column shape in landscape design because they can easily be trimmed to keep the shape by light pruning. Italian cypress on the other hand are graceful looking till they attain maturity. The seedling-grown cypress' secondary branches tend to sprawl out. They have to be cut back, or also wired in a spiral to form their neat column shape. Additionally, the cypress have to be trimmed with hedge shears.

Podocarpus are ideal for a tall screening affect that is desired for privacy, instead of walls or fences. The dense foliage provides restful color and complete screening.

HERE'S an odd experience I want to share with you. During a garden clinic appearance at a nursery a man asked for a turf fertilizer for his hybrid bermuda lawn. I suggested he use a rich turf food containing more live nutrients, pound-wise, than any other. Then he asked, "when do I use the turf-builder fertilizer?" Knowing there is such a one on the market, I suggested he use it three months later. This answer floored him. He wanted to know how soon should he follow up with the turf-builder, after the first application of the suggested one for his hybrid bermuda lawn.

It dawned on me, he thought he should use the turf-builder soon after the other strong fertilizer! I explained that any time he used a balanced turf food-fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash, plus trace minerals ... he is already using a turf-builder fertilizer regardless of the brand. Finally we got down to the nitty-gritty, both sacks cover the same area as the brand he referred to. Here's how we were able to accurately determine which one furnished the most nutrients-fertilizers plus trace minerals.

We multiplied the sack weight times the total of all the beneficial ingredients. The answer was a large figure, so we put a decimal point two figures from right to left. The answer was in pounds. We then tackled the suggested fertilizer for his hybrid bermuda lawn, and likewise did the multiplication of all the ingredients, plus the decimal point in the right place. The first figure had only 4.38 pounds of live materials. The suggested one had 11.23 pounds of live materials. That comparison finally convinced the man he had about one-half times more good turf-building materials in that sack!

While tackling the tall blade lush green weeds in back of the garage away from all plants excepting a lemon tree, a thought occurred to me. Why not keep a sheep in the backyard? It would eat off the weeds to the ground. For more green feed I could rent it out to neighbors like a tool. I'd be earning some moonlighting money, too. Before it grew old I could have it butchered, then our family would have meat too! This might be a thought to pass on to you readers

Q. I have two questions — first, I received a Boston fern in a hanging pot. It's very tightly packed. Actually one or two fronds at a time turn brown. We water when it's dry. My husband thinks it should be divided. What do you think will help it? Also my amaryllis bulbs are through blooming.

When can I plant them outside? I want them outside permanently. Mrs. H. A. Mitchell.

A. Next time you water your fern, a day later take it and dunk into a tub with the water three or four inches above the top of the hanging pot. If it bubbles as soon as it is immersed and continues to bubble for three to five minutes, you didn't give it enough water! One pot filling isn't enough. It should be refilled two or three times with water after the water disappears into the soil from the previous time. Before soaking, tap the plant out of the pot. If the root ball is a tight mat of roots it should be repotted, but not separated. Use a good organic mix material to repot it in not a heavy mix. Loosen the ball of roots so they will have a chance to grow into the new mix.

PLANT the hybrid amaryllis bulbs in a sunny flower bed but be sure the bulbs' necks are about an inch above the soil. Mix some bone meal or flower-fruit fertilizer in the hole, then cover the prepared soil over the fertilizer soil at least a two inches then set out the bulb and fill the prepared soil over it. Don't plant the bulb in dry soil. Fill hole with water, when it soaks into the soil, do the rest of the recommended planting procedure. Good luck.

Q. Enclosed sample is of weeds in my dichondra lawn. What is their name and what will kill them without injuring that lawn?

Mrs. Walter Howard 2730 Adams St., L.B. A — First of all, though it sounds silly, you could root them out a day or two after the lawn has been well watered. It is a tedious job and causing sore fingers. There is a material on the market listed to ex-out spurge. Check with your nurseryman about such a liquid post-emerge herbicide di-

New eye dye sought for better disorder detection

Vatican's war data on Jews

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A specialist in photography of the inside of the eye revealed Friday that researchers are attempting to find new chemical dyes that will improve diagnosis of certain eye disorders.

Ogden Frazier, an ophthalmic photographer for the University of Iowa medical school in Iowa City said in an interview at Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach that an Iowa medical investigator is attempting to find dyes superior to fluorescein, the one now used in eye studies.

Frazier was in Long Beach to speak at an ophthalmic photographers seminar in Memorial's Center for Health Education.

He said Dr. Sohan Hayreh of the University of Iowa is heading an investigation to find dyes that will help doctors differentiate between "true staining and pseudo-fluorescence."

The significance is that the dye currently used may sometimes mislead diagnosticians, Frazier explained.

Fluorescein, the substance now used, is injected into a vein in the arm, and by the process called fluorescein angiography, the substance's progress is traced through rapid-sequence photography as it passes through the blood vessels inside the eye.

Ophthalmologists say this procedure is extremely helpful in determining whether a discoloration is a harmless collection of pigment or perhaps a cancerous growth or circulatory disturbance in the inner eye.

Frazier also is scheduled to speak today, the second and final session of the seminar, on the topic of stereo photography, which gives three-dimensional pictures of the eye.

With this type of photography, he said, a doctor can see things in the eye that might be missed with conventional photographic procedures.

William Lutwick, ophthalmic photographer of County-USC Medical Center in Los Angeles and secretary of the Ophthalmic Photographers Society, said the procedure of fluorescein angiography can help doctors differentiate between tumors of the iris and benign pigmented areas.

He called the procedure "very new" and said it can do for the iris, diagnostically speaking, what it has been doing for conditions of the retina, the rear portion of the eye. The iris is the circular pigmented membrane behind the cornea, the clear front portion of the eye.

Don Wong, New York City, president of the Ophthalmic Photographers Society, said infrared photography can provide an additional diagnostic aid to eye doctors.

Rites today for Dr. Foote, 48, prof at LBSU

Private services for Dr. Ronald C. Foote, a popular English professor at Long Beach State University, will be conducted today.

Dr. Foote died Thursday at his home in Long Beach after a long illness. He was 48.

Memorial services for Dr. Foote at the university are pending, officials said.

Dr. Foote's family requests that donations, in lieu of flowers, be made to the Ronald Foote Creative Writing Scholarship Fund. Checks should be made payable to the California State University at Long Beach Foundation (Ronald Foote).

Dr. Foote, an LBSU professor since 1957, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland and earned his master's degree from that city's university. He taught at Southeastern University in Hammond, La., before joining the LBSU faculty the year after receiving his doctorate.

He is survived by his wife, Barbara; his mother, Ellen; and a brother, George.

First Garden Grove mayor, H. L. Lake, dies

H. Louis Lake, the first mayor of Garden Grove, died early Friday at the age of 63.

Doctors said Mr. Lake, who served as mayor from June 18, 1956 to April 12, 1960, died of a stroke at 5:50 a.m. in St. Joseph Hospital, Orange.

A native of Garden Grove, he was born July 15, 1910 in his parents' home on Fourth Street. Upon graduation from Garden Grove High School, he attended Occidental College. Later, he joined the family business, Garden Grove Lumber Co., where he was active until his death.

Mr. Lake served as president of the city's Chamber of Commerce in 1943-44, was at one time a member of the Garden Grove (Elementary) School Board and actively supported the community's bid for incorporation in 1956.

Following a six-year absence, Mr. Lake returned to the city council April 12, 1966. He served as a councilman until March 5 of this year, when he retired for health reasons. He had suffered a heart attack Aug. 24, 1973.

He served on the

BUT THE volume asserted that "Msgr. Burzio did not know anything about the real destination of the deportees... like Msgr. Burzio, not even the Jewish agencies had knowledge that the deportations were part of a general operation for mass extermination."

And the Vatican, at times accused of not doing its utmost to help Jews flee Nazi Germany, said its actions in favor of all refugees was "energetic." It said the Pope, then Pius XII, "showed indefatigable desire not to neglect any possibility to offer his help within the limits of his power and his influence without any distinction to nationality, race or religion."

In another instance, the Vatican said Msgr. Burzio tried to intercede and solicited the help of Slovak President Joseph Tiso, who was a priest. When no help was forthcoming, Msgr. Domenico Tardini, then a high official in the Vatican's Foreign Affairs Department, remarked:

"The trouble is that the president of Slovakia is a priest. That the Holy See cannot force Hitler's hand is understood by everyone. But who can understand that it can't even influence a priest?"

THE current volume, covering 1941 and 1942, contends that even German bishops hindered the Vatican's humanitarian efforts.

It states, for instance, that Adolf Cardinal Bertram ordered German bishops — "ceding to pressure from Berlin" — not to tell their flocks anything about the Vatican's "bureau of information," which had been set up to give information to the families of prisoners of both the Allies and the Axis.

Orange County Grand Jury, was first vice president of the Orange County Water District, president of the West Orange County Water Board, a member of the California Water Resources Agency and participated in the Santa Ana River Watershed Project.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Monday in the United Methodist Church, 12741 Main St., Garden Grove. Burial will be private.

Mr. Lake is survived by his wife, Dorothy, of the family home at 12591 Euclid St.; sons, Harry Lake, Jr. and Charles William Lake; daughter, Kathleen Andres; and four grandchildren, all of Garden Grove; sisters, Eva Lake, Garden Grove, and Myra Edson, Santa Ana.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions be made in care of the Garden Grove City Hall to fund a portion of the planned H. Louis Lake Senior Citizens Facility, which will be part of the Community Center. Checks may be made payable to the City of Garden Grove — H. Louis Lake Fund.

BRIEFLY... 'Social' vs. 'spiritual'; Nations seldom repent

By MARK CLUTTER

The United Methodist Church lost 200,000 members throughout the nation last year. Bishop Marvin Stuart, San Francisco, attributes the shocking decline to "the acute polarization that has divided us into 'personal' and 'social' camps."

It is small comfort to Methodists that they are not alone. Most of the traditional denominations are wracked by the same conflict.

On one side are those who favor the "social Gospel." They believe the church should directly concern itself with social ills. It should be activist and use political and social pressures to change the world.

Opposing them are those who hold to "the spiritual Gospel." The church, they believe, has the primary duty of ministering to the spiritual needs of individuals. If the church produces strong Christians they will work for a better world — outside the church.

Bishop Stuart thinks the two philosophies should be brought together. "I don't think we can talk about personal renewal at the same time we turn our backs on social ills, but likewise I see little hope for improving the quality of life by merely organizing programs of social improvement without deep spiritual roots."

Some of the most effective programs for the improvement of the quality of society are carried out by secular groups which are motivated by the teachings of churches. An outstanding example is the National Conference of Christians and Jews which over several decades has increased friendship, understanding and justice among religious and ethnic groups who formerly didn't like each other.

repentance. There is something in the nature of power which makes men think they are always right. When evil days occur, they are attributed to the evil deeds of enemies.

There is something hopeful in the "Congressional Resolution Proclaiming April 30, 1974 A National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer."

The resolution declares that in spite of great prosperity, the nation has forgotten God, has made an idol out of national security, has failed to respond to needs of fellow men has blinded itself to God's standards of justice and righteousness. The nation is urged to repent of its national sins.

Many churches are planning to observe next Tuesday with services of prayer and repentance.

DEATH in our "broad-minded" is the ultimate obscenity that many people do not dare to mention or even think about.

This squeamishness seems to be declining. Churches are giving courses in the complicated business of dying. The classes are practical considerations of the psychological problems of the dying person and his family, of wills, funerals, financial problems and of the right way to care for grieving survivors.

The Christophers devote their current News Notes to the subject.

Why is there this new sane interest in the common fate of all? Perhaps it reflects the decline of the youth cult which dominated the 1950s and 1960s.

Young people feel they are immortal. A 50-year-old veteran recalled his days in battle: "Men were dropping all around me, but I never once thought there was a bullet meant for me. I thought I would live forever. I don't think that way any more."

Acceptance of one's mortality with philosophic courage is a mark of true

'KNEE DEEP IN MIRACLES'

Nazarenes offer 'a new way of life'

By MARK CLUTTER

"We are knee deep in miracles," said Rev. Bill E. Burch, pastor of the First Nazarene Church — "the Church of the Three Crosses" — at 2280 Clark Ave.

The miracles, he emphasized, are the changes wrought in the lives of people. Sometimes the change is dramatic. Sometimes it is a quiet shift to a better direction for one's life.

"We are helping people to discover a new way to live," Rev. Burch said. "The Nazarene Church is not denomination-oriented. It is people-oriented. We try to find where people are needing or hurting and provide for their needs."

What do people need? Where do they hurt? The needs and hurts of mankind are infinite in variety, but the most pressing problems of today concern marriage and the family, Rev. Burch says.

"The real issue today is the family. Marriage is in trouble," he said. "Consequently much of the work of the church directly or indirectly is in the direction of enhancing and stabilizing marriage and the family."

Sermon titles for the informal Sunday night meetings indicate the church's concern for helping people with their emotional problems. Here are three titles: "How to Believe in Yourself," "Healing of Damaged Emotions" and a series, "Sex Can Be Beautiful."

Rev. Burch gives individual counseling to eight to 14 persons each week. The majority have marriage or family problems. When necessary, he refers individuals to suitable professional help.

Incidentally, the pastor's door is open to anyone. "The pastor's services are extended to all who need him — without respect to church affiliation. If you are in need of spiritual help, if you are perplexed and in need — we will be happy to pray and counsel with you."

The pastor's wife, Janice, conducts a series of seminars with women on how to improve their personalities and their family and marriage relationship. She uses "Fascinating Womanhood" by Helen Andelin, a Mormon, as a basic text. The book stresses the traditional values.

The church does not think of itself as a closed congregation of the faithful, Rev. Burch emphasized. Rather, it considers itself as a center of service to the community.

"We have about 1,000 members," he said, "but 400 to 500 other persons are associated with us. Members of 20 other denominations worship here."

"This church is cosmopolitan. All ages and vocations are represented. We have common laborers. We have all levels of the middle class. We have physicians and lawyers and business executives."

One community service is drug education, conducted by Les Wright, director of children's activities, for young people and parents.

"It is heartbreaking to conduct the funerals of some who died of overdoses," Rev. Burch said. "The drug problem seems to be declining, but the use of alcohol seems to be increasing with young people. There is a trend toward conventionality, and youth today is more likely to imitate the parents."

The Nazarene Church is straight-faced. It officially warns against "the using of alcoholic liquors as a beverage or trafficking therein ... using tobacco in any of its forms ... the indulging of pride in dress or behavior ... songs, literature, and entertainment not to the glory of God."

The Nazarenes insist that these are not mere negatives. Rather, when a Christian reaches toward sanctity, such things are no longer desirable.

First Nazarene emphasizes youth activities. Sometimes these take unusual forms. There is, for example, the Karate and Bible Class. The young people work off steam in the Oriental martial art, then settle down to Bible study.

On Sunday night there is Agape, a teen-age service with guitars and drums. ("Agape" is a Greek word meaning the highest form of selfless Christian love.)

First Nazarene is suffering from over-population — and continues to grow. There are Sunday School sessions at 8:30, 9:45 and 11 a.m. and worship services at 9:45 and 11 a.m. The church is in constant use throughout the week except for Saturdays.

Plans call for the purchase of 28 homes as a site for a sanctuary that will seat 2,500. The capacity of the present sanctuary is about 700. Eleven homes have already been purchased. When the sanctuary is built, the present buildings will be used for an expanded program. There is now a day nursery school.

The expansion is possible because Nazarenes give strong financial support to their churches. First Nazarene's budget this year is $350,000. Tithing — giving a tenth of the income — is emphasized and many members, all the church leaders do just that.

ble because Nazarenes give strong financial support to their churches. First Nazarene's budget this year is $350,000. Tithing — giving a tenth of the income — is emphasized and many members, all the church leaders do just that.

First Nazarene was at Tenth Street and Olive Avenue until 1960. The move and most of the construction were carried out under the leadership of Rev. Mark Smith, pastor.

Rev. Smith is active in the church on retired status. First Nazarene is pioneering a plan to utilize the services of retired members. Another active retired member is Ray Knighton. An executive of a large corporation has volunteered to become business manager on retirement. Another man has offered to be a neighborhood visitor.

The church helps to support 600 missionaries throughout the world. It conducts a tape ministry for shut-ins. It is planning to build a gymnasium and to develop a TV program.

"We're really seeing it happen here," said Rev. Burch.

He grew up on a New Mexico farm and took his bachelor of arts and bachelor of theology at Bethany Nazarene College in Oklahoma City. He then attended the Nazarene Seminary in Kansas City, Mo.

He has served churches in Olathe, Kan., Riverside and Upland. He has been here four years. He is 41. The Burches have two sons and two daughters, all teenagers.

The Nazarene Church owes its origin to the holiness movement of the 19th century. The denomination, however, did not come into being until early in the 20th century. The church owes much of its basic doctrine to John Wesley, the founder of Methodism.

The Nazarenes believe in sanctification which can bring the individual to the perfect love of God. This does not make them unaware of human frailty and folly.

GOINGS ON

The Association of Christian Teachers and Students will hold a day-long conference at Melodyland, adjacent to Disneyland, May 4 to discuss problems facing public and private education. Attendance of 2,000 is expected.

Mary Greer, vocalist with the Long Beach Municipal Band, will present a concert at First Christian Church, Fifth Street and Locust Avenue, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

"How a Congregation Can Relate to the Needs of a Community" is the topic of Rev. Paul A. Hanson, guest preacher from Minneapolis, Sunday at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, 370 Junipero Ave. Rev. Hanson is a national leader in the Lutheran Church in America.

A narrative worship service to refresh members in the meaning of the liturgy will be presented by John Buezis and Mrs. LeRoy Danvers at Bethlehem Lutheran Church, 11082 Wallingsford Road, Los Alamitos, Sunday at 9 and 11 a.m.

A two-day youth work retreat for all interested high school students will be held Friday and Saturday, May 10 and 11 at Lake Hills Community Church, Laguna Hills.

The Priscilla Ciercle of Los Altos United Church will hold its annual spring boutique, 10 a.m. to noon at 6511 Dirscoll St.

The Daniel Weaver Singing Group will present a concert of sacred music at Narbonne Avenue Baptist Church, 24730 Narbonne Ave., Lomita, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

"Celebrate Life," a musical drama based on the life of Christ, will be presented at Los Altos Brethren Church, 6565 Stearns St., Sunday at 8:30 p.m. and repeated on May 5 at 8:30 p.m.

Rhonda Sandberg, organist at the First United Methodist Church of Lakewood, 4300 Bellflower Blvd., will present an organ concert at the church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Anthony Saffo Amad'Deo will be ordained into the Universal Church of the Master at the Little Shrine of the Open Heart, 724 Elm Ave., Sunday, 2 p.m., by Rev. Katherine Kimbrough and Rev. Valerie So Relle.

maturity. A 105-year-old man summed it up neatly in an interview: "Never be afraid to live and never be afraid to die. We are in the hand of God."

IS ALL the hullabaloo a smokescreen to keep Americans from facing more important issues arising from the Vietnam War?

Rev. Richard J. Niebank, a secretary for social concerns of the Lutheran Church in America, asks in a paper prepared for the church's Department of Church and Society:

"Is attention to amnesty a diversion from other important issues, especially the legitimate claims of Vietnam-era veterans (numbering close to five million) who, by post-World War II standards, are receiving less than a pittance for their service under a policy which the general public now agrees to have been misguided?"

It was reported that Vietnam veterans have "the highest rate of unemployment of any minority," and that their educational and health benefits are lagging.

Surely the problem of what to do about the few thousands who elected to run away is minor compared to what we should do for the five million who took up arms in obedience to their nation's laws.

SERIOUS CLASHES on the content of mission work have hit several Protestant denominations, and officials of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries are not hankering for same. A group of "concerned Methodists" met in Dallas last month, formed an Evangelical Missions Council and called for negotiations with the board leadership.

In reply, Bishops Paul Washburn and Rev. Dr. Tracey Jones Jr., president and general secretary of the board, said they are "ready to meet and discuss openly and frankly the issues raised."

Want to take off pounds?

A man said he wanted to talk about a personal problem. He seemed quite uptight so we discussed formulas for healing tension. And he was obviously depressed so we discussed that problem. Then we got down to what was really eating him. It was what he was eating. He said his doctor insisted that he take off weight but he just couldn't seem to do it.

"Why not," I told him, with the smugness of a dieter. "Look at me. I've just taken off thirty-five pounds."

"How did you do that?" he asked enviously.

"Well the only way to thin down is to stop eating fattening things."

"Sure, I know, but that's just the trouble. I like fattening food."

"I like fattening food too," I replied. "But I discovered that you can attack the problem by mental strategy including discipline and imagination."

I could see that he was not enthusiastic about discipline. So I told him about a weight control formula mentioned to me by a ship captain with whom I once sailed to the Far East. The captain's formula was: "Just take a good dose of the wonder drug sulphur-dienal."

I explained that power of will is gained by inserting into your personality through right thinking a new element of strength: the ability to deny yourself. This increases the self-discipline factor so that you will find it not as difficult as you expect to regulate intake and leave off those rich desserts. You can acquire this new power of will first of all by really wanting it. Desire is the first step and belief is the second. Without these two you might as well forget it. Desire plus belief is the formula that makes will power possible. Following that, the will must be exercised. Every time you deny yourself, you are actually toughening your mental "muscles". The only reason for a flabby will is disuse. Use it, discipline it, and it grows strong.

The next step in losing weight by dieting is to use the amazing power of imagination which is even stronger than will power. Imagination means just what it says — "Image-ing." It means projecting images or mental pictures of desired conditions. A basic fact of human nature is the tendency to become what we habitually imagine (or image) ourselves as being. What you see yourself as being you will become. To be slender picture yourself as slender. Decide the exact weight you want to be. Then really want to see the scales at that projected figure. Toughen up your will by disciplinary practice.

Persistently hold that picture of yourself as slim, clothes fitting comfortably, collar nice and loose, waistline a couple of inches less. Hold in your mind the image of how good you will feel without that fat you've been carrying around. Put the immense power of the mental picture behind your objective. Image and visualize and you will strongly tend to actualize your mental picture of your desired self.

Of course, these two steps are only part of the program for losing weight which I was able to give to my visitor in some detail. They are probably the two most important steps — and after he learned to take them, he was on his way to a solution not only of his weight problem but of his other emotional problems as well, for, often, overeating is a symptom of emotional difficulty. We eat because of something that is eating us.

It isn't usual for a minister to write about reducing, a subject usually left to medical editors and beauty columnists. But anything that concerns human well-being should come within the province of the minister. Plato, one of the wisest men who ever lived, wrote: "So neither ought you attempt to cure the body without the soul. . . . For this is the great error of our day . . . that physicians separate the soul from the body."

In dealing with the problem of overweight medical advice is essential. On the question of reducing and its importance to general well-being, my brother, Dr. Clifford Peale, a physician and surgeon, and I jointly wrote a little pocket-sized booklet called "Live Longer and Better." I will be happy to send you a copy with my compliments. Just write me in care of this newspaper and perhaps we can help you take off pounds. And better still to live longer and better.

DAY OF PRAYER

Americans urged to fast, repent

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

At the initiation of Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, a theologically sharp Oregonian who is regarded as a possible choice for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination, many Americans have set aside a day to "confess our national sins and to pray for clemency and forgiveness."

They've scheduled observances on Tuesday, April 30, of a National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer, as urged in a resolution introduced by Hatfield and adopted by the U.S. Senate.

Participation has been supported by the U.S. Catholic bishops administrative board, by several Protestant and ecumenical organizations and by many community groups. At least seven governors — in Colorado, Arizona, Idaho, Louisiana, Georgia, Nebraska and Alabama — have issued proclamations for the observance.

It could "result in a great spiritual awakening throughout our land," says Bill Bright, president of Campus Crusade for Christ, in material sent to 600,000 campus workers. "Prayers . . . can turn the tide and change our nation."

Ex-Nazi tells women of truth in Christ

By MONA SEYMOUR
Convention Delegate

More than 2,000 women gathered this week for the fifth national convention of the Reformed Church of America, held on the Queen Mary.

General chairman was Mrs. Willard June, Emmanuel Reformed Church, Paramount.

Held every three years, the convention provides a place and atmosphere where Christian women can gather and learn more about the practical applications of Christianity.

One of the highlighting events was a talk by Maria Anne Hirschmann, "the girl who loved the Swastika."

Popularly called "Hanzi," which also is the name of the book which tells her story, Mrs. Hirschmann told of the ability of a Nazi-captured prisoner and a former Nazi youth to find peace and forgiveness through the unconditional love of Jesus Christ.

Speaking to more than 3,000 persons at the Municipal Auditorium Wednesday night, "Hanzi" said, "I sincerely believed I was doing the right thing (as a follower of Hitler), but sincerity is no substitute for truth."

"Truth is not a text or doctrine, but is a person — and his name is Jesus Christ."

Mrs. Hirschmann related her struggle with the guilt she suffered because of the Nazi concentration camps — even though she said she had no knowledge of them until after the war.

Her guilt was conquered, she said, through the love and friendship shown

Hatfield, 51, a Biblically minded student of Abraham Lincoln and a critic of so called "civil religion" that equates Americanism with God, says "we must turn in repentance from the sin that has scarred our national soul."

"Only a national confession of corporate guilt can save us from the worship of our own finite power . . . and heal the wounds that presently afflict us."

A Baptist and two time governor of his home state before being elected to the U.S. Senate in 1966, Hatfield is among few federal lawmakers along with Sen. Harold Hughes, D, Iowa disposed to discuss issues in such explicitly religious terms.

"Until you know a candidate's philosophy of life, you don't know the candidate," he told a recent interviewer. Asked his philosophy, he said, "I define my philosophy in terms of the Lordship of Jesus Christ."

Church dedication

The new Bethany Baptist Church of Seal Beach will be dedicated Sunday with ceremonies starting at 10 a.m. and lasting through the afternoon.

Dr. Roy Knuteson, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church of Whittier, will be principal speaker at 2:30 p.m. Arnie Hartman, accordionist, will be the guest speaker in the morning. He will also provide music at the morning and afternoon services. There will be a dinner.

The new church, which is pastored by Rev. James B. Cunningham, is meeting in the Marina Community Center, 151 Marina Drive.

DR. ROY KNUTESON

Note from an atheist

To Religion Editor:

After reading the meandering inanities of Saturday's religion section (including Norman Vincent Peale's "positive thinking" bilge) it is a relief to return to the wit, brilliance, lucidity and humanity of Bertrand Russell's writings. Here is a suggestion to liven up the religion pages. Reprint extracts from Russell's "Why I Am Not a Christian" and invite priests, ministers, and other religious authorities to comment.

Of course no newspaper publisher would dare to try anything like this. There would be cancelled subscriptions and vituperative condemnations. Christians can dish it out but they can't take it.

OK, so I am a "village atheist."

All Saints has new pipe organ

A memorial pipe organ will be dedicated at All Saints' Episcopal Church at a Solemn High Mass Sunday, 10 a.m.

After the dedication by the rector, Rev. Donald R. Behn, there will be "Old Hundredth Psalm Tune" as arranged by the late Ralph Vaughan-Williams for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. The musical setting for the Eucharist will be "St. Michael's Mass" by Rev. Benjamin Harrison. James N. Naylor is organist and choirmaster.

The organ, built by Abbott & Sieker, Los Angeles was paid for by memorial and thanksgiving offerings.

A dedication recital will be given on May 26 at 4 p.m. by Richard Purvis, former organist at Grace Cathedral, San Francisco.

Church Women to discuss jobs

"Explore New Paths" will be the theme of Church Women United Friday at First Baptist Church, 1000 Pine Ave.

The keynote speaker will be Carnelea Barnes, who was a member of the Causeway Team to Asia and is a member of the national board of Church Women United.

The purpose of the meeting is to explore ways in which women can enter new vocations or improve the vocations they have. Attention will be paid to counseling of high school girls and to guidance to women past 30 who wish to enter or re-enter the job market.

The morning sessions start at 10:30 a.m. There will be a luncheon and an afternoon session.

U.S. blacks to Israel, for study of 'Moshavs'

Six black clergymen and educators, specialists in the development of low-income rural cooperatives in America's southern states, left for Israel this week for a week of intensive study of Israel's "Moshav" system. The tour is being coordinated by the American Jewish Committee's Christian Visitors to Israel Program, and was arranged in cooperation with the Foreign Ministry of the Israel Government.

The group plans to determine ways by which the highly successful

"Moshav" operations can be duplicated in the black cooperatives of the Southern U.S. It also hopes to enlist the direct assistance of Israelis with technical experience in "Moshav" methods, who would come to the United States to help set up similar systems here.

A "Moshav" is a unique Israeli form of cooperative agricultural settlement, based on principles of private ownership combined with mutual aid.

Christian Science

does CHRISTIAN
REALLY HEAL?

Yes, it does. Because the healing Principle taught and practiced by Christ Jesus can apply to anyone at any time. New proofs of its healing power occur every day.

Healing in Christian Science means much more than physical release. It means a victory over fear. A clearer understanding of God, and of yourself.

You're invited to learn more at our Sunday service. The Bible Lesson you'll hear will explain more of how Christian Science heals.

Won't you come this Sunday?

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Productivity, however you achieve it, is the main factor this year. Old solutions do not resolve new problems, and nearly all of the difficulty is of sorts which until now you have been spared. You may find enough of a path through the tangles to blaze a trail for many others to follow.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Home and its immediate area is far enough for your roaming this Sunday, and complex enough a blend at that. Uneven forces keep things lively.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Be critical of written or printed commentary, but not of people's thinking or beliefs. Improvisation, one of your natural talents, serves you well.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Resolve question relating to work then you are quite free to make the most of this Sunday. Several phases or moods are probable, so you needn't be upset by passing trivia.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The less significant the reason, the more likely it is to be used as a marker in a psychological game. If you can spot the game and stay out of it so much the better.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your solitude is occupied with reflection, thinking. Skip any re-minations - there's no basis, since whatever has come to pass is not all of your doing.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make your plans known to everybody concerned before each one develops a conflicting scheme. You'll forego some routine companionship, in any case.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your money should remain strictly under your own exclusive jurisdiction, however difficult the task of keeping it that way may turn out to be.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Digressions from intended subjects bring up comment. Keep your story straight before wandering into other reports, avoid confusion and wasted energy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take the time to check things out, read details yourself, pay attention to what you are promising as well as what you are promised.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Anything will do to set off endless rounds of discussion, even though you're not called on to start. Side effect: Benefits from better understanding.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Now comes the harvest of some of your theories. Be happy if the people who care take the trouble to sort things out and forgive whatever they do not understand.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Travel, information from a distance does not bring expected results. Anything mechanical or electrical should be used with caution, instructions followed implicitly.

ABC's fall schedule

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

"The FBI" has been gunned down after nine years on the air, but there'll be no shortage of cops and criminals on ABC-TV's fall schedule.

Returning on ABC will be two police series, "Streets of San Francisco" and "The Rookies," plus the derring-doll of "The Six Million Dollar Man" and "Kung Fu," among other fare.

David Janssen, Darren McGavin, Clint Walker and Robert Forster will return to the tube as stars of four of the network's new dramatic shows, and Teresa Graves will star as television's first black female undercover cop in "Get Christie Love!"

JANSSEN comes back as Harry Orwell, a San Diego private detective, in the hour-long "Harry O" series.

Three of the other new dramatic series are based on "Movie of the Week" films: "Kolchak — the Night Stalker," in which McGavin will re-create his role as dynamic reporter Carl Kolchak, who investigates weird crimes; "Nakia," in which Forster plays a contemporary deputy sheriff of Navajo heritage, and "Get Christie Love!"

Love!" starring Miss Graves.

Walker returns in the half-hour "Kodiak" series as Cal (Kodiak) McKay, an Alaska state patrol officer.

ABC's sixth new dramatic series will be "The New Land," the story of a courageous Scandinavian immigrant family that struggles to carve a new life for itself in Minnesota in 1858.

THE NETWORK also will introduce five new half-hour comedy series and an hour-long comedy-variety series, "The Sonny Comedy Revue," starring Sonny Bono, in the fall.

The new comedies will be "Fireman's Ball," dealing with the off-duty shenanigans of a fire company and starring Cliff Gorman; "That's My Mama," about a black family in Washington, D.C., and starring Clifton Davis and Theresa Merritt; "Paper Moon," about a young drifter and an 11-year-old girl in the Depression years, starring Christopher Connelly and Jodie Foster; "Everything Money Can't Buy," with Jose Ferrer playing an angel who grants wishes to deserving people, and "The Texas Wheelers," with Jack Elam as the lazy, no-account father of a Texas family.

In the new season, "The Odd Couple" will shift from Friday to Sunday; "Kung Fu" will shift from Thursday to Saturday, and "Streets of San Francisco" will start at 9 rather than its current 10 p.m. on Thursday.

HERE IS THE ABC prime-time fall schedule, as announced by network president Martin Starger:

MONDAY — 8 p.m., "NFL Monday Night Football"; 9, "The Rookies."

TUESDAY — 8 p.m., "Happy Days"; 8:30, "Tuesday Movie of the Week"; 10, "Marcus Welby, M.D."

WEDNESDAY — 8 p.m., "That's My Mama"; 8:30, "Wednesday Movie of the Week"; 10, "Get Christie Love!"

Drug-using Chargers fined $40,000

Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP)—The San Diego Chargers, general manager Harland Svare and eight players have been fined a total of $40,000 and the individuals involved placed on probation by the National Football League for violation of NFL drug policies, commissioner Pete Rozelle announced Friday.

Details as to the specific drug violations were not revealed.

The players fined were Deacon Jones and Tim Rossovich, $3,000 each; Coy Bacon, Dave Costa and Jerry LeVias, $2,000 each, and Rick Redman, Walt Sweeney and Bob Thomas, $1,000 each. Sweeney was traded to Washington in the off-season.

The players were disciplined "for violations occurring at the training camp site and, in some cases, during the regular season as well," according to Rozelle.

The San Diego Charger Football Club was fined $20,000, a sum equal to the total amount of the individuals fined, for "supervisory omissions by its administrative staff," Rozelle said.

Svare was fined $5,000 and placed on probation "for failure to exercise proper supervisory controls over activities of the players and others having entree to the football operation."

"Of course, everybody knows we're talking about marijuana," said Svare when contacted in Clarkfield, Minn.

Tommy Prothro, incoming Charger coach, said he "really can't say much about what has happened because I was in Europe when the events seemed to have taken place."

"As for the future, I have discussed my position with management and they concur. All of these players are not with us now and others will be gone before we start the season."

"Those we feel are rehabilitated and are still with us this summer will be replaced if they show signs of continuing their bad habits."

Charger owner Eugene Klein had no argument with Rozelle's action.

"I think obviously the commissioner had enough information and did what he thought was correct. There has to be strong discipline in all sports today or it will run away. If you don't have discipline, sports as we know them today in this country will disappear."

Although the team has policy of fining players for drug violations, Klein said the Chargers had never acted against a player. "The Chargers have no evidence (of any drug activity), but obviously the commissioner does," said Klein.

He said the Chargers would take no further action against the players. "I think the commissioner has taken the necessary action." Klein also said he "had no idea what drugs were involved."

Sweeney reacted sharply, saying, "I'm appalled. I haven't done anything illegal. Happily, I'm no longer with them (the Chargers)."

Last November, a secret state report in California said drug use on the Chargers was worse than in 1969 when a player claimed teammates performed under the influence of drugs.

Last May, former Charger Houston Ridge was awarded $300,000 in a court-ordered settlement. In depositions taken in the trial, Charger officials were accused of passing out as many as 10,000 high-powered pep pills, tranquilizers and other drugs during a one-year period.

The new investigation said in part "the basic problem exists... the condition regarding drugs is worse today than it was in October 1969 when Mr. Ridge was injured."

Svare said last November that club management had never permitted use of amphetamines or other illicit drugs. "We don't tolerate it, we don't condone it," he said.

Klein said it was "an ironclad rule" that any player caught using an illicit drug would be fined $1,000 and suspended.

There was no indication that any players were ever fined or suspended by the club.

Ryan mystery deepens, so has gloom of Angels

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

CLEVELAND — The Nolan Ryan mystery deepened Friday — and so did the gloom in the camp of the Angels.

Perhaps Nolan needs an exorcist to chase away the little wild man who is obviously hidden in his right arm.

Although not exactly breezing because of intermittent spasms of wildness, Ryan carried a 3-0 lead into the seventh inning Friday night only to see the Cleveland Indians erupt for four runs and abscond with a 4-3 triumph.

JOE LAHOUD doubled and singled in 4-3 loss to Cleveland.

The loss was the sixth in seven games for the Angels and in each of the last four defeats the margin has been one run.

To compound Ryan's miseries, he was struck on the right bicep by a line drive off the bat of John Lowenstein in the fateful seventh, but both Ryan and trainer Freddy Frederico claimed bravely that he would not miss a turn.

"I'm worried about him," admitted a disconsolate Bobby Winkles after Ryan failed for the third time to collect victory No. 3. "He wasn't this wild last year."

Ryan said he was more frustrated than concerned.

"Any time you get a lead like that and can't hold it, then you're no good," he said.

Walks have been Ryan's tormentor all year. He issued seven more Friday and it was the last two which were his undoing.

He opened the seventh by passing Leron Lee and Dave Duncan. He struck out pinch-hitter George Hendrick for his seventh and final "K" of the evening before Lowenstein drilled a single off his bicep. The drive knocked Ryan on the seat of his trousers and before he could react Lowenstein was across the bag and the bases were loaded.

Jack Brohamer singled off Denny Doyle's glove for one run and then Chris Chambliss turned the game around.

Swinging late on a Ryan fastball, the former UCLA star managed to rife an opposite-field double to left that cleared the bases and chased Ryan.

"That's luck, I guess," said Chambliss, whose immediate reward was to be traded to the New York Yankees in a seven-player deal after the game.

Cleveland tried to give the game away in the early innings but the Angels weren't taking.

They loaded the bases in the first inning with one out but Bob Oliver, who had a frightful night, grounded into a double play. The sacks were full when Oliver came up again in the third but he popped up for the final out.

The visitors finally got to Bob Johnson in the fourth, scoring three times. Mike Epstein walked and singled by Richie Scheinblum and Elie Rodriguez produced a run. After Buddy Bell booted Dave Chalk's sacrifice bunt to load the bases, Denny Doyle delivered a sacrifice fly.

Joe Lahoud walked and Frank Robinson was hit by a Johnson pitch, forcing over the third run of the inning. They might have had more but Oliver,

YANKEES, INDIANS SWAP 7 PLAYERS

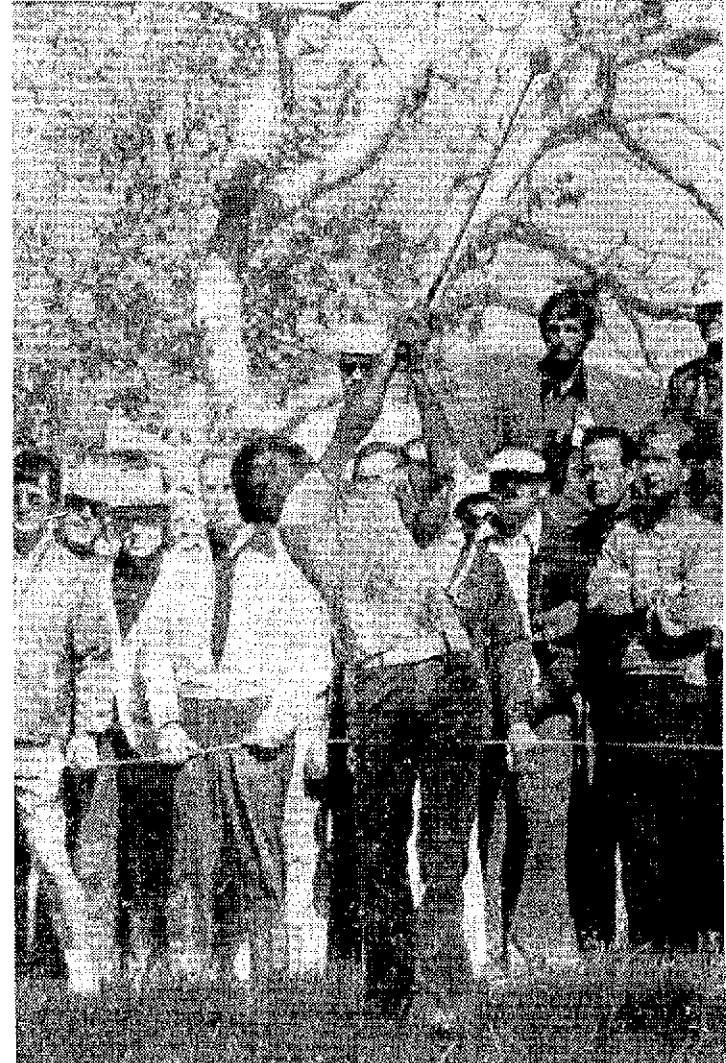

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees Friday completed a seven-player trade with the Cleveland Indians that sent starting pitchers Fritz Peterson and Steve Kline to the Tribe in exchange for first baseman Chris Chambliss and righthander Dick Tidrow.

In addition to Peterson and Kline, both of whom slumped badly last season, the Yankees also gave up relievers Fred Beene and Steve Buskey, while Cleveland sweetened the pot with reliever Cecil Upshaw.

Peterson, a 20-game winner for the Yankees in 1970, was the key man in the trade as far as the Indians were concerned, even though the crafty left-hander dropped to an 8-15 last season and had lost his job in the starting rotation this year.

Peterson, 32, was involved in a wife-swapping episode with teammate Mike Kekich in spring training in last season and had been the subject of trade talks ever since. Peterson had appeared in only three games so far this season and had a 4.70 ERA with no record. The Yankees sold Kekich to the Indians last year, but he is no longer with the club.

The key man in the deal for the Yankees is Chambliss, a left-handed hitter who carries a .278 career batting average for three seasons. Chambliss, 25, was the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1971 and was hitting .328 for the Indians this season.

Allin has a blast
Brian Allin, who leads Tournament of Champions by four strokes after two rounds with 9-under-par 135, blasts from rough on 16th fairway Friday at Rancho La Costa. He took bogey-5 on the hole.

Fourth in row for Dodgers

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

Steve Yeager drove in three runs Friday night in the Dodgers' 7-1 victory over Montreal, their fourth successive triumph.

He is hitting a robust .500, yet he remains the Dodgers' No. 2 catcher, behind Joe Ferguson, a man who's hitting .157.

The manager, Walter Alton, offers a tough-to-beat reason. "Ferguson is a better hitter, that's why," Alton replied when asked why Yeager has started only three games and Ferguson 16.

Yeager, a man described by vice president Al Campanis as "the best defensive catcher in baseball," wishes to cause no waves.

"I can only go out and give 125 per cent," he said after his first RBIs of the young season, "and if that's not enough I don't know what is. But it sure felt good to get in there and play."

Yeager's bases-loaded single highlighted a five-run first inning, a tidy cushion for Andy Messersmith who not only tossed a three-hitter at the Expos, the leaders in the National League East, but also contributed to the attack with a double, single and an RBI.

"It's a lot easier pitching with a five-run lead in the first inning," acknowledged Messersmith, who shook off the effects of a recent bout with the flu to post his second win in as many decisions.

"I did have a pretty good scouting report. That helped a lot."

The reference was to relief pitcher Mike Marshall, the former Expo, who huddled with Messersmith and the other Dodger starters on the whys and hows of pitching to the Montreal lineup.

One of those handled by Messersmith was Willie Davis, the former Dodger, who got the ball out of the infield only once on a fly ball. He was 0-for-4 and fanned his last time against Messersmith, who struck out seven.

"I threw him three change-ups in a row," Messersmith said of his eight-inning strikeout of Davis. "The change was working well all night."

A walk to Dave Lopes, sacrifice bunt by Bill Buckner, walk to Jim Wynn and single by Ron Cey got the first run across in the first inning. Willie Crawford followed with a run-scoring single, making it 2-0, and then Steve Garvey walked to load the bases.

That brought Yeager to the plate. In a similar spot two nights earlier Yeager was lifted for a pinch hitter — Ferguson — who grounded into a double play.

"Yes, I did recall that incident," Yeager said, smiling.

This time Yeager remained. He drove a single through the left side of the infield to add two more runs. Messersmith singled home the fifth run of the inning and Gene Mauch, the Montreal manager, mercifully lifted Steve Renko, his starting pitcher.

The Dodgers added a run in the fourth when Buckner tripled home Lopes. Yeager's bloop double in the eighth, which fell between Bob Baily, Tim Foli and David Ray has a kick about 'stupid rules'

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

"They're stupid rules," says David Ray, "and they're going to make the game duller than it is."

That's what the Rams' placekicker and National Football League's leading scorer thinks of this week's rules changes that will, among other departures, require missed field goals to be returned to the original line of scrimmage beyond the 20-yard line and uproot the goalposts from the goal line to the rear of the end zone.

"I couldn't care less about them moving the goal posts," says Ray, who kicked Ram records of 130 points and 30 field goals and received Pro Football Weekly's Golden Toe Award for the season.

"But it's ridiculous to bring the ball back to the line of scrimmage. It's going to put a lot more pressure on me."

Ray, a year-round resident of Orange County, was contacted by the Independent Press-Telegram while visiting his parents in Phenix City, Ala. He spoke out against the field goal change not only for himself but on behalf of the Rams' offense, which led the NFL in yardage and points.

"They keep talking about making the game wide-open," Ray said. "Well, this can't do anything but hurt an offensive ball club. You're taking away a chance to put points on the board."

"Our offensive team last year kept the ball for as long as eight minutes sometimes. If I happened to miss a field goal, it was all for naught. An offensive team should have a chance to be rewarded, but now anybody would be stupid to try a long one if they might give up the ball at midfield."

"All you'll see now is punts going into the end zone where people can't run 'em back, or coffin-corner kicks."

Ray also is disturbed about the new "sudden-death" rule to settle ties.

Aaron slams his way into record book again

Combined News Services

"Please don't mention any records to me," Henry Aaron said Friday night after the 40-year-old Atlanta Braves' hitter set another one.

Aaron smashed the 15th grand-slam home run of his career, establishing a National League record, as the Braves defeated Chicago, 9-3.

Aaron's homer, his 719th, highlighted an eight-run uprising in the seventh and moved the slugger one grand slam ahead off San Diego's Willie McCovey and the late Gil Hodges, who had shared the mark.

Aaron was reminded that Lou Gehrig holds the major league record with 23.

"I don't think anybody will ever break that record, that's for sure," Aaron said.

In other National League action, New York rocked San Francisco 6-0, the Dodgers stung Montreal 7-1, Cincinnati gained a 4-3 decision over St. Louis, Pittsburgh shaded Houston 4-3 and San Diego defeated Philadelphia 6-2.

Tom Seaver, bouncing this season, fired a four-hitter and belted a pair of run-scoring singles, pacing the Mets' win.

Seaver, who entered the game with an 0-2 record and 6.12 ERA, was staked to a two-run lead in the first inning and delivered run-scoring singles in the third and eighth.

Ron Bryant of the Giants was making his 1974 debut after a training camp mishap but was lifted in the third.

Cincy jumped on St. Louis starter John Curtis for two runs in the second inning and the Cards stranded 12 runners in the first seven innings enabling Reds to win.

Houston shortstop Roger Metzger's error on Ed Kirkpatrick's bases-loaded grounder in the bottom of the ninth gave the Pirates their win over Houston.

Dave Winfield belted a tie-breaking home run in the sixth to help Dave Freisleben win his major league pitching debut as the Padres turned back the Phillies.

Freisleben, a 22-year-old right-hander, hurled a four-hitter. He lost a shutout in the sixth when Dave Cash walked and Del Unser homered to create a 2-2 tie.

Winfield's game-winning homer came off loser Steve Carlton, now 2-1.

Suits, the ones filed in court, not worn, highlighted professional sports activity Friday.

San Diego Charger defensive end Deacon Jones filed a breach of contract suit against his employers, seeking to be declared free of his contract with the NFL team.

Jones claimed his contract called for a $10,000 bonus for the 1972, '73 or '74 seasons if he were voted to an all-pro team, but the Chargers never paid it after he was selected to an all-star squad.

The action asked the court to rescind Jones' three-year contract and award him $20,000 for each of the three years he claims he was to have received a bonus.

THE multi-million-dollar antitrust suit against the American League will be formally dropped next January, provided the league comes up with a plan to return major league baseball to Seattle by 1976.

Washington State attorney general Slade Gordon said that was the agreement reached in a special meeting in Chicago with baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, American League president Lee MacPhail and their representatives.

WHILE SUITS were being flashed around the professional circuit by players and teams, charges and countercharges were being exchanged by cities and the NFL and coaches and the NFL. A promoter, Mike Lynn, said the "highest possible source" has told him the NFL would grant Memphis a franchise. Commissioner Pete Rozelle denied the reports. "There is no question that NFL ownership has considerable interest in the city of Memphis but there has been no decision to expand," Memphis mayor Wyeth Chandler told the NFL to hurry its decision. "Memphis is not going to be used by the NFL or by anybody." The mayor said his city may now try to land the NFL's Toronto team. A Seattle executive said his city can't wait forever for the NFL to make up its mind. "I know that football belongs here and I don't think there is anything that's going to prevent it," said King County executive John Spellman.

Track's major leaguers vie at Mt. San Antonio

By JIM MCCORMACK
Staff Writer

WALNUT—It is perhaps the last of the grand old gentlemanly track carnivals — hundreds of events and thousands of athletes.

They held the first third — 116 events, if you care to count — of the 16th Mt. San Antonio College Relays here Friday and the day's successes and failures were right in line with the meet's illustrious history.

Competition, which continues today and Sunday, began at 9 a.m. Friday and ran far into the evening, affording a crowd of 4,500 an opportunity to witness most of Southern California's finest high school, junior college and, in some instances, collegiate performers.

FEW fans were on hand when the night's most frustrating event took place.

That was the inability of Milikan High School's Mike Tully, the nation's No. 1 schoolboy pole vaulter, to clear his opening height of 15-6.

"I'm just not doing a lot of things right," said a subdued Tully, who has a 16-4 competition vault and a 16-5 "fun" jump to his credit.

Tully waited nearly two hours to vault Friday night, watching all of his competition go out at 14-6, then quickly missed three times at 15-6, barely reaching the pit on the third occasion.

Brian Goodman of Agoura won the vault at 14-6, besting John Clemmons of Azusa (14-6), and Tully's Milikan teammate, Craig Wilson (14-0).

The meet resumes today at 9 a.m., with many of the nation's finest open and collegiate athletes in competition. Key events begin at 11:30 and continue with starting times through 4:45 p.m.

LONG Beach City College's two-mile relay team of John Clifton (1:57.2), Ken Yates (1:57.2), Chris Clements (1:58.6) and Jeff Haynes (1:52.2) combined for a 7:45.2 and a blue ribbon.

"I'm pleased with the way these kids have come along," beamed LBCC coach Don Mulligan. "That's the fourth fastest time in Southern California this year. I'm especially pleased about the improvement of Clements. Earlier this year he was running 2:08."

Wilson topples Millikan; 18th Lakewood win

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

Lakewood High is going to the CIF baseball playoffs, but some doubts arose as to the Moore League's other representative Friday night at Blair Field.

In a game it had to win to stay in the running, third place Wilson nipped runnerup Millikan 6-5 to close to within one and one-half lengths of the Rams with four contests remaining on the 1974 schedule

Neff, Molina, fall to Artesia

Neff's Ed Molina, who has yielded only two hits in his last 14 innings of work, suffered his second defeat in a week Friday, when Artesia scored a 2-0 Suburban League decision.

Molina lost a no-hitter last Friday to Gahr. Artesia, leading second-place Cerritos by two and one-half games, scored what proved to be the winning run in the first inning when Russ Goddard singled home Dennis Camire.

Neff stranded runners at third with one out in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings. Tony Morrison picked up the win, yielding only three hits.

Cerritos kept within striking distance of first with a 6-1 win over rival Gahr.

Gahr committed eight errors in the loss and Cerritos pitcher Louis Souza struck out nine.

Bill Vincent led off the Cerritos fourth inning with a single and was advanced to second when Race Filary reached first on an error. Scott Winters singled home Vincent and advanced Filary to third. Mike Acheson singled home Filary and Winters scored on two Gladiators miscues.

Brent Buchholz, who had homered in the second inning, singled home the two winning runs in the bottom of the seventh inning with a 3-and-2 count and two outs to lead Mayfair past Glenn, 6-5 denying the Eagles their first league win.

Chuck Pinner struck out six to run his league record to 4-1.

Buchholz finished with 3 RBI and went 2-for-4.

Lynwood loses but still leads by one

Excelsior knocked off league-leading Lynwood Friday, 5-2, in San Gabriel Valley League action.

Ken Devore hurled a five-hitter and struck out 10, dropping the Knights to 6-3 in league play.

Rick Hrone doubled home a pair of runs as the Pilots rallied to extend a 2-0 lead into a five-run bulge in the fourth inning. Joe McKnight handed Excelsior its third run of the inning by walking in a run.

Lynwood's John Leone ruined Devore's shutout bid with a two-run double in the third.

Despite Lynwood's loss, the Knights failed to lose the league lead.

Warren exploded for 10 runs to turn back Norwalk, 10-4.

Lynwood did, however, gain a second challenger. Excelsior moved into a second-place tie with Norwalk. Both have 6-4 marks.

Norwalk, trailing Lynwood by one game entering Friday's contests, used three pitchers in an effort to stop the Bears.

Greg Lawson and Dan McMillen each drove in two runs for Warren and Larry Spiers hurled seven innings to gain the win.

La Mirada, leading 3-1 in the bottom of the fifth inning, exploded for five runs to crush Paramount, 8-1.

Rick Wilcox got his third consecutive win. Wilcox has allowed only one run in his last 21 innings. He is 3-1.

Mike Gingerich drove in three runs with two singles, and Scott Hay and Fred Velaska totaled two hits apiece for the Matadors.

Bellflower's Mike Shannon reached first base on an error, stole second and scored on a two-base error in the seventh inning to help the Bucs nip Downey, 4-3.

Shannon also drove in two runs for the Bucs in the second inning.

Bob Leonard had a two-run single in the first inning for Downey.

Los Alamitos maintains two-game Irvine lead

Los Alamitos maintained its two-game cushion and Edison was dropped from second to fourth place in the Irvine League play Friday afternoon.

At Los Alamitos, the Griffins scored early and often to submerge Corona del Mar, 8-3.

With Los Alamitos leading 2-0 in the second, Greg Harris doubled, Ron Ash walked, and after Dave Beal grounded into a double play, Brian Tiechert singled home the first run of the inning. Mike Carpenter followed a Mike Beard single with a three-run homer to make it 7-0.

Kurt Hantzsch struck out six Sea Kings enroute to the victory which gives the Griffins an 8-2 league mark.

Costa Mesa won an important 4-1 decision from Edison on the Mustangs home field.

Don Tryon hit a two-run homer in the fifth to start the scoring. After Edison's, Mike Selwood hit a roundtripper in the top of the sixth, Costa Mesa added another pair of runs with three singles and a sacrifice fly.

Valley Christian scored single runs in the third and fifth innings to subdue Olympic League rival Brethren, 2-1, at Brethren High Friday.

Bill VanderWeide, the winning pitcher, was aided by three double plays and relief help from hurler Tom VanderDuffen.

Greg Bell's three-run homer in the bottom of the first paced Dominguez to a 6-4 Whitmont League victory over Santa Fe.

The Garden Grove League got tighter, if that's possible as Los Amigos nipped Santiago 2-1. Garden Grove nudged Bolsa Grande 1-0 in 10 innings and Pacifica got by La Quinta 1-0.

Jerry Mastel singled and scored from first on a hit-and-run play in the fifth to give Los Amigos its go-ahead run.

Scott Borie pitched a 10-inning shutout for Garden Grove to keep the Argonauts tied for the league lead. Ken Davison singled in Dave Thomas to give the Argos the only run of the contest.

In the Sunset League, Santa Ana beat Huntington Beach, 5-2, and Westminster surprised Newport Harbor, 6-5.

League-leading Newport suffered its second loss in the event when Curren Runge singled home the winning run for Westminster in the bottom of the seventh.

49ers tumble Fresno

Designated hitter Clem Bonilla was the backbone of a grinding Long Beach State offensive effort that subdued Fresno State 7-6 Friday afternoon on the campus field.

The 49ers produced runs in five separate innings, sparked by Bonilla's 2-for-2 performance that included a homer and a double, two runs scored and three RBI. Freshman centerfielder Carl Buggs also slugged a homer, a two-run shot in the seventh that gave Long Beach what turned out to be its winning run.

Gary Pellant (3-for-5) and Gaspara (2-for-4) also were instrumental in helping the 49ers to their sixth Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. victory against seven defeats. Long Beach is 26-28 overall while Fresno slipped to 8-7 in the PCAA.

Jon Langston picked up the win in relief of starter Gary Beare. The 49ers meet the Bulldogs in a twin bill today at Blair Field that gets underway at noon.

Nitehawks blanked by Barons

By CHUCK MEDICK
Staff Writer

Ed Bentley surrendered only four hits to the Lakewood Barons Friday night, but two of them were home runs and the Long Beach Nitehawks dropped a 3-0 decision in a Western Softball Congress game at Joe Rodgers Field.

The Nitehawks loaded the bases against Guy Sparrow in the first inning, but that was as close as they came to scoring.

Bob Aguilar cooped the second inning with the year's longest home run, a line shot over the 240-foot mark in dead centerfield.

Hal Joyce homered in the eighth.

The Nitehawks travel to Vista for a noon doubleheader on Sunday, while the Barons go to San Bernardino for a noon twin bill.

ALLIN LEADS—

couldn't save a 10-footer.

"As I said Thursday, the three finishing holes here are murder," he stated. "My game plan before the tournament was two bogies on both 16 and 18 and two pars. To play well, I knew I would have to gain ground on the first 15 holes."

Barber, known as "Mr. X," actually was in the lead briefly. The 43-year-old veteran birdied the first three holes to go 6-under. Allin was 5-under after his bogey on No. 2.

Barber, the Sherman, Texas, native who won the World Open last fall, went out in 33, but he bogied the 10th and 18th coming in and had to settle for a 37-90.

Little also went out in 33 and could have had undisputed second place except for a bogey on the 18th.

FIVE players besides Allin shot 69s, the low round of the day. They were Little, Billy Casper, John Schroeder—all from the San Diego area—Bobby Nichols and Johnny Miller.

Young Lanny Wadkins, who carded a 67 Thursday, shipped to a 74, leaving him in sixth place behind Schroeder and Texan John Mahaffey, who birdied the 12th through 15th holes but bogied the 16th and 18th.

Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, salvaged a 71 after going out in 38. He eagled the par-5, 519-yard 12th hole with a drive, 5-iron and a four-foot putt. He then birdied the 13th.

"My swing is terrible," said the four-time T of C champion. "I missed seven fairways."

Shockingly, Lee Trevino is in last place at 75-78-153. Even Sam Adams, the 100-1 longestshot, is four up on the unmerry Mex. Only man in between them—again a surprise—is young Ben Crenshaw, who posted a 77 for 151.

Both Trevino and Crenshaw shot the back nine in 41.

Third favorite Tom Weiskopf also appears out of contention. He fired a 74 for 145.

CASPER started brilliantly with six birdies in 12 holes to pull within three shots of the lead at that juncture. But he bogied Nos. 15, 16 and 18 and now trails by nine.

Little was 4-under and

RAY HAS A KICK

"First off," he says, "a guy can get hurt. Also, I wonder if they're going to be willing to pay us for another quarter."

Despite his 1973 achievements and added pressures from the rule changes, Ray says he'll be earning "very little more money" than last season "and I don't think (Carroll) Rosenbloom's going to offer to renegotiate my contract."

Ray says he has no immediate interest in the World Football League, which will field a franchise in his home state at Birmingham. The WFL rules as regards field goals will be the same, anyway.

"I hope it (the WFL) comes off like a gold mine," says Ray. "I've talked to them but, unfortunately, I have another year on my contract and an option year after that. I'll never sign more than a one-year contract again."

"I'd rather stay with the Rams, anyway, but little things like this upset me. I think it's going to hurt the game of football."

Arson suspected at race track

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Investigators sifted through the smoldering remains of the grandstand of Fairmount Park race track Friday looking for evidence of arson in the $6 million blaze that destroyed the 49-year-old structure.

State, local and federal officials were at the scene of the fire that shut down the track in the midst of a dispute between Fairmount officials and horse owners on the distribution of track receipts.

Raise Skirts wins at Golden Gate

ALBANY (UPI) — Raise Your Skirts, the only filly in the field, drew away in the stretch at Golden Gate Fields Friday to win the $20,000 added Juvenile Dinner Stakes by one and one-quarter lengths.

Coupled in the wagering with Early Cotton and Sneaky Kid, Raise Your Skirts paid $6.00, $3.80 and $2.40 as the 2-1 favorite in the field of 12. Neat Claim returned $5.60 and $3.00 and Ridami Lew paid $2.80.

Anthony Davis leads USC victory

BERKELEY (AP) — Anthony Davis collected a pair of hits and drove in two runs as the University of Southern California scored a 4-1 Pacific-8 Conference baseball victory over California Friday.

Davis, a football standout and right fielder, hit a ground rule double to score Dennis Littlejohn in the second inning. He had another RBI in the eighth with an infield single.

The win gave USC pitcher Russ McQueen a 7-3 record.

California had two men on base in the fourth, sixth and eighth innings, but McQueen worked out of each spot.

3 HURDLERS WIN A RACE WITH DEATH

MISSION VIEJO (AP) — As three hurdlers prepared to take their marks in a high school track meet, a car careened off the freeway and rolled six times before hitting the athletic field fence.

The hurdlers took off in unision, bounded over the fence and pulled the injured motorist from the car just as it burst into flames.

The highway patrol said Donald O. Knutson, 24, of Gardena owes his life to the runners.

Knutson, who lost control of his car on the freeway was reported in satisfactory condition Friday with neck and shoulder injuries.

The hurdlers were Steve Markusik, 18, of Tustin High School and Rich Tomsovik and Wilbur Gregory, both 17, of Mission Viejo High School.

Stanford wins Ojai

OJAI (AP) — Stanford swept all four quarterfinal singles matches Friday to wrap up the team title with two days left to play in the 75th Ojai Invitational Tennis Tournament.

The four wins, assuring an all-Stanford semifinals and finals in the Pacific-8 Conference singles competition, gave the Cardinals 18 points — twice as many as second place UCLA.

USC was third with eight points and California had five.

Alex Mayer, the No. 1 Stanford player, led the sweep with a 7-6, 7-5 victory over Cal's Trey Watke while teammate Pat Dupre ousted Brian Teacher of UCLA 7-6, 6-1.

In the other Stanford victories Jim Delaney beat Steve Mott of UCLA 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 and John Whitlinger defeated John Andrews of Southern Cal 7-6, 6-1.

Barajas to leave hospital bed today

Mexican welterweight Zovek Barajas, hospitalized after being knocked out at Olympic Auditorium Thursday night, was reported in stable condition Friday.

Barajas is expected to be released today from Pacific Hospital, where he was taken after Billy Lloyd KOD him in the fourth round.

NOW OUR 4 RV CENTER MANAGERS SLUG IT OUT FOR NO. 1 SPOT & A TRIP TO HAWAII

CIVIL WAR RAGES!

THIS CONTEST ENDS MONDAY NIGHT APRIL 29th
YOU MAY NEVER SEE DEALS LIKE THIS AGAIN!!

L.A. COUNTY "YANKEES"		ORANGE COUNTY "REBELS"
JIM LUBER MANAGER OPEN ROAD SOUTH IN CARSON So far I'm in the No. 1 spot. I'm going crazy on trade-ins, discounts and giveaways, but mainly I'm GOING TO HAWAII. Those other guys don't stand a chance against Open Road South. When you see your deal today, you'll holler "Sweet Leilani!"	MICKEY RICH MANAGER OPEN ROAD THE VALLEY "We're the newest, and the shortest on used RV's. What I'll appraise your rig for will blow those other three out of the ball game. I'll make almost any kind of deal — See you in Hawaii!"	BOB DUNCAN MANAGER OPEN ROAD ANAHEIM "I'm in the number 2 spot, and... If you folks help us beat Open Road South, and send me to Hawaii, I won't make JUST A GOOD DEAL FOR YOU, I'll make a CRAZY DEAL! See me personally — I'll make you a believer."	JIM KEYSER MANAGER OPEN ROAD HUNTINGTON BEACH "Aloha, beach brothers, don't count us out, we're the dark horse & a strong finisher — we're small but mighty. I won't refuse a deal with the world's finest profit. We must beat the other stores. (My wife is already shopping for flowered shirts.)"

CIVIL WAR DECLARED ON HIGH PRICES!

The gas is flowing and prices are going up up up on RV's, but not at our four giant RV Centers. Our managers are out to beat each other silly by beating any and all deals for you, the customer this weekend.
